U. S. Faced by Air Invasion If British Fleet Fails--Stimson

Favorable Vote On Bill To Aid Britain Urged

Keeping War Out of America Called Big Problem.

By The United Press. WASHINGTON, Jan. 16.—Secretary of War Henry L. Stimson said today he favored helping Great Britain maintain her fleet because the United States would be in "very grave danger" of invasion by air if the British sea forces are beaten.

He declared that the national "problem to me is not so much keeping America out of war as keeping war out of America."

"The British fleet today stands alone as an obstacle to German control of the Atlantic," he said. "Bill Not 'Radical.'"

Stimson testified before the House Foreign Affairs Committee on the administration's lend-lease legislative program of all-out aid to Britain. He urged "prompt and favorable" committee consideration of the measure, arguing that the bill "is not a radical departure from existing legislation," and that the United States is fully entitled to extend all kinds of aid to Britain under international law because the Axis powers have violated the Pact of Paris outlawing war.

A fight within the committee over what witnesses will be asked to testify on the bill resulted in a compromise which may bring former President Herbert Hoover before the group next week.

Bullitt May Testify. The United Press was informed that William C. Bullitt, who resigned recently as ambassador to France, also may be invited before the committee.

The inter-committee fight—between Chairman Sol Bloom, Democrat, New York, and Representative Hamilton Fish, New York, ranking Republican member—over who would be asked to appear, forced suspension of hearings on the lend-lease bill while Stimson was testifying.

Bloom disputed Fish's authority to issue invitations and adjourned the hearing and called an executive session at which the matter was threshed out. Fish revealed meantime that he already had received acceptance from Wendell L. Willkie, 1940 G. O. P. presidential nominee, and Joseph P. Kennedy, resigned ambassador to Great Britain.

List Not Ready. A responsible source said there was a "likelihood" that Hoover, Willkie, Kennedy and Bullitt would be called next week, and that every effort will be made to arrange a satisfactory and convenient time for their appearance if they wish to testify.

It was emphasized that official

BLOOM GOES BOOM—There was an explosion of sharp words yesterday when Chairman Sol Bloom, of the House Foreign Affairs Committee, and Representative Hamilton Fish, ranking minority member, angrily clashed over future witnesses at hearings on the President's bill to aid Britain. Row started when Fish said Bloom had told him to invite witnesses, including Wendell L. Willkie, to testify next week. Bloom denied it. That's Bloom talking heatedly (in front of the officer at left) to Fish (bowed head). Next to Fish is Representative George H. Tinkham enjoying it all.

Nazi Bombers Raid Illustrous Second Time

Three Direct Hits Were Scored in Attack, Berlin Claims.

BERLIN, Jan. 17.—(AP)—(Friday)—(AP)—Informed sources said early today that German dive bombers had attacked the British aircraft carrier Illustrious for the second time in six days Thursday, scoring three direct hits.

The same sources said the attack took place "in a British naval fortress in the Mediterranean, where a number of bombs were dropped."

The 23,000-ton Illustrious made port in the Mediterranean under her own power Wednesday, after being damaged in a ferocious attack by German dive bombers on January 10.

(Dispatches from Valetta, Malta, told of a heavy raid by dive bombers on that island naval base Thursday, and presumably this is where the Illustrious was attacked the second time.)

One heavy bomb and two medium bombs hit the Illustrious on the Thursday attack, the Germans said, and "despite fierce anti-aircraft fire, only one German bomber has failed to return."

Axis Powers Afraid To Draw U.S. Into War, Diplomats Think

Hitler, Mussolini Reported To Have Genuine Respect for Tremendous Industrial Resources of America; Huge Naval Forces Feared.

By GLADSTONE WILLIAMS. Staff Correspondent.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 16.—Latest word brought back by some of our diplomatic officers in Europe is that the Axis powers have no intention of provoking the United States into war, regardless of how far we may go in our program for aiding the British.

Hitler and Mussolini are represented as feeling that to draw us in as belligerents would only result in redoubled efforts on our part toward converting the nation's industrial resources into an arsenal for British aid.

Moreover, so long as we remain a neutral, our huge naval forces, which are being augmented with a new ship every 12 days, cannot be used for British convoy service or for co-operation with the British in any attempted invasion by the Germans.

In other words, as some of our diplomatic officers report, it is infinitely to Hitler's advantage to keep us out of the war, even though he may resent deeply the active aid we are giving Great Britain in the form of supplies and materials.

The Axis powers are said to have a genuine respect for the tremendous industrial resources of this country once they are geared for war production. Some of our economic experts have long proclaimed the ability of the United States to outdo the whole continent of Europe in industrial mobilization and the production of war materials if we set ourselves to such a task.

The knowledge of our industrial potentialities is regarded by many as a proper explanation of the rather restrained reaction in Berlin and Rome to President Roosevelt's pending program for all-out aid to the British through the lend-lease legislation now before congress.

Eastern Grammar School Destroyed

The Eastern grammar school, situated just off Roosevelt highway in Red Oak, was destroyed by fire last night, causing a loss of $55,000, Jere Wells, county school superintendent, reported. Cause of the blaze was not determined. The building was built five years ago. The loss was covered by insurance.

The school had 10 classrooms, an auditorium and a cafeteria. Fulton County Policemen G. C. Bentley and C. T. Spier discovered the blaze and summoned the East Point and College fire departments, but they were unable to cope with the flames because of a lack of water. Chief T. L. Mewborn, of the College Park department, said part of the building could have been saved if more water had been available.

House Group Approves Cash For Navy Ships

F. D. R. Asks Authority To Build 200 Merchant Vessels.

By The Associated Press. WASHINGTON, Jan. 16.—The house naval committee gave prompt and unanimous approval today to an urgent Navy request for authority to spend $909,000,000 for 400 relatively small ships for the Navy and for a vast expansion of shipbuilding and ordnance plants.

The action brought to $1,209,000,000 the naval outlays which the committee has recommended in less than 24 hours. Approved yesterday was a $300,000,000 program for strengthening the fleet's defenses against dive bombers and other aerial attacks.

No funds were carried in the legislation, but the Navy announced it would seek a large part of the money soon via a supplemental appropriation bill.

Formal Request.

President Roosevelt, meanwhile, put in his formal request to congress for authority to build a fleet of 200 merchant vessels "upon an emergency basis," and asked for an appropriation of $313,500,000. The chief executive already had disclosed at a press conference that the program was in the making.

He sent a message to congress today saying:

"I am convinced that the national interest demands that immediate steps be taken upon an emergency basis to provide against the effect upon the United States of a possible world shortage of cargo vessels.

"Therefore, I feel that there should be undertaken with the least possible delay the construction of not less than 200 steel cargo vessels, suitable for use in the present emergency and of such type and design as will permit of their most rapid construction."

400 New Ships. The 400 new naval ships, to cost approximately $465,000,000, would consist chiefly of subchasers, seagoing escort vessels, minesweepers and torpedo boats.

The Navy already has signified its intention of asking funds for 280 of them. The latter include 36 escort vessels—165-foot seagoing craft which could be used for transoceanic convoy patrol—30 subchasers; 24 torpedo boats and 190 minesweepers. They would cost a total of $310,460,000 fully equipped.

Of the $315,000,000 for new shipbuilding facilities, Rear Admiral Samuel M. Robinson, chief of the Bureau of Ships, testified that about $25,000,000 would be used to create or expand facilities for the construction of the 280 new craft. The bulk of these are to be built on the Great Lakes, Robinson said, but the specific yards have not been selected.

Some of the new building facilities will be for the 40 additional destroyers for which the navy recently awarded contracts.

The bill also would authorize an outlay of $194,000,000 for expansion of the nation's capacity for making anti-aircraft guns for both naval and merchant vessels, armor and other ordnance.

Chairman Vinson, Democrat, Georgia, announced he hoped to get the authorization bills before the house for consideration not later than next Thursday.

He told newsmen he also would introduce legislation to authorize each member of congress to appoint five midshipmen to the Naval Academy instead of four, in an effort to increase the supply of officers for the growing navy.

The committee is to hold public hearings on the measure tomorrow.

Far-Reaching Probe By Senate Indicated

By LUKE GREENE.

The state senate appeared to be headed for a searching investigation of virtually every department in the state government yesterday after Senator Ben W. Fortson, of the 50th district, charged that the Wildlife Department was left with a deficit of more than $5,000, making it impossible for the new director, Zach Cravey, to pay even his telephone bill.

Fortson's charges touched off a lively discussion among other members of the senate resulting in similar attacks on other departments.

The senators were severe in their criticism of the outgoing Rivers administration and urged that an economy move be launched within their own group. There were indications that senate leaders would decide this question over the weekend.

Charges Rampant Graft.

Senator H. B. "Hell Bent" Edwards, of the Sixth district, declared that a $5,000 or $6,000 deficit was not a "drop in the bucket," charging that "parties and graft have been rampant."

Raising his voice to an eloquent pitch he declared:

"There are only two clean departments in the state government: One is the state treasury and the other is the penitentiary where the murderers are."

He was referring to the fact that the state was left without much money and that a large per cent of the prisoners

State Expects 963 Objectors In Draft Call Of N. Y. Bank

20 in Fulton, DeKalb Granted Deferment Due to Religion.

An estimated 963 Georgia draft registrants will seek deferment from military service because of conscientious objections, according to statistics compiled at state headquarters by Major Charles J. Brockman.

The report discloses that 20 men in Fulton and DeKalb counties already have been granted deferment by their local boards because of religious objections. Three of these are opposed to all types of military training and will be sent to CCC camps. The remainder will be given noncombatant training.

1,410 in Class I-A.

Local boards in the two counties have classified 6,299 registrants through January 15 and of this number 1,410 have been placed in Class I-A—available for immediate service. Barring rejections later because of physical disability, this is enough men to fill the 1941 quota.

The supposed number of conscientious objectors in the state was figured on a percentage basis, Major Brockman said, and should be considered only as an estimate. There are two classes for objectors, Class I-A-O consists of those who will be placed in offices because of objections to combatant service. Class IV-E will consist of objectors to all military service who will be used to fill out CCC camps.

Classification List. A list of local boards in Fulton and DeKalb counties showing the number of registrants placed in I-A, the number deferred because of conscientious objections and the total number classified to date follows:

Another state staff officer, Major B. G. Owens, draft medical director, reported that local board medical examiners were waging war against venereal diseases. Several cases of latent venereal diseases have been discovered through the blood tests required of all I-A registrants.

E. W. Stetson New President Of N. Y. Bank

Guaranty Trust Elects Former Resident of Macon.

Eugene W. Stetson, who as a youth began his banking career in Macon more than 30 years ago, yesterday was elected president of the Guaranty Trust Company, of New York—the world's third largest banking institution.

He was born of a distinguished family in Hawkinsville and educated at Mercer University. Following his graduation, he was employed by the American National Bank, of Macon.

After several years he organized his own bank, the Citizens' National Bank, and headed it as president. In 1916 the Guaranty Trust Company offered him the position of vice president, which he accepted, after selling his institution to the Fourth National Bank of Macon.

Mr. Stetson has been married twice. His first wife, the former Miss Josephine Shaw, of Macon, died shortly after their marriage. They had two children, Eugene Jr. and Josephine. In 1915 he married Miss Lola Wise, of Macon. They have three children, Basil W. Stetson, of Atlanta, Charles Stetson and Lola Stetson.

F. D. R. To Take Oath Wearing Shirt Made by Atlanta Woman

A handsome Egyptian broadcloth shirt, made by an Atlanta woman, was sent to President Roosevelt last night for the chief executive to wear at his historic third-term inauguration Monday.

Mrs. Nellie Mann, of 1038 West Peachtree street, yesterday completed the shirt, made according to directions sent her by none other than Mrs. Roosevelt herself.

The First Lady, in answer to the request by Mrs. Mann for the President's measurements, sent the Atlanta one of his shirts to be used as a pattern.

George Fisher Quits Post as Tattall Head

Firing, Hiring Expected To Start in Earnest Next Week.

By WILLARD COPE.

The Talmadge pre-inaugural mention of "a trainload" was pure euphemism. The right word is "massacre," if you wish to speak accurately about the fate of roughly 2,250 of the around 3,000 employees in various state offices on and around Capitol hill.

So ran the word yesterday among the initiate, who also pointed out that the demand upon the new administration for jobs was running about 60 per cent ahead of the 1933 and 1935 records.

No trustworthy indications were expected before the middle of next week when Talmadge will have returned from the Washington inauguration ceremonies. Then, it was forecast, firing and hiring would start in real earnest.

Situation Canvassed.

Belief that "practically all vulnerable employees have three strikes on them—only, the last one hasn't been called yet," was expressed by a veteran official, holding a high elective office, who canvassed the situation carefully, department by department, for the Constitution, protected by a pledge of anonymity. His findings were echoed by others equally as well-informed, and as reticent, and largely substantiated by a separate survey of every major division of state government.

This had to do with the "little people," the $100-or-so-a-month clerks, stenographers, secretaries and the like, who were to be seen, careworn, anxious and jittery, yet trying to retain something of a front, in the luncheon, corridors or offices, talking over their tragic situation.

Fisher Resigns.

In the higher spheres there were more concrete developments. George A. Fisher, trained penologist and superintendent of Tattall prison, resigned at the thinly veiled suggestion of Talmadge and was succeeded by R. H. Lawrence, commissioner of Baldwin county, who was prison warden in the previous Talmadge administrations.

C. C. McKnight, of Senola; Samuel D. Hewlett, of Atlanta, and J. B. Daniels, of LaGrange, were named to succeed, respectively, Grover C. Byars, of Rome, chairman, and Turner Brice and Dr. John R. Lewis, members, of the Board of Penal Corrections.

needlework of the buttonholes was done by Mrs. John Vardunovits, an Italian, living in Atlanta.

From the shirt tail to the yoke, the shirt measures 36 inches. The sleeve length is 36 inches, the neckband measures 15 1-2 inches and the wristband measures 11 1-2 inches.

The idea of making a shirt for the President was thought up by Mrs. Mann in 1932, soon after Mr. Roosevelt was elected the first time. With members of his family, he was visiting in Warm Springs and Mrs. Mann wrote to Mrs. Roosevelt asking her for his shirt size and telling her of her desire to make a shirt for the President to wear when he took the oath of office.

Fulton Leaders
Map Plans for
Polio CampaignMike Benton Announces
Series of Festivities on January 30.

The campaign for the war on infantile paralysis in Georgia got under way in Fulton county yesterday with completion of the county organization, as outlined at a luncheon given at the Athletic Club, at which a number of leaders were guests of H. T. Dobbs, executive director of the state campaign.

Al Belle Isle, chairman of the Fulton county committee, presided and discussed plans for raising more contributions than in any past campaign.

Mike Benton, vice chairman, announced plans for a series of dances and entertainments at a number of clubs and hotels the night of the President's birthday, January 30. They were a great success last year, despite the fact that guests had to drive through a snow storm.

Dr. David Marx spoke of this campaign against infantile paralysis as a part of the nation's "first line of defense." He said the health of the nation was as important as armament.

Dean Raimundo de Oves, of St. Philip's cathedral, spoke of his deep personal interest in the campaign and the unflinching courage of the sufferers from polio.

Scott Candler, chairman for the fifth congressional district, stressed the fact that half the funds to be raised are to be expended in this county, in the treatment of patients in the Scottish Rite hospital, the Convalescent Home and other institutions and for other assistance, and half to national institutions for the important work of research.

Ellis Arnall, state chairman of the committee for celebration of the President's birthday, discussed the state campaign and its organization, which is rapidly being completed.

Completion of several tentative quotas assigned large firms were reported, though the Fulton county campaign hardly has begun.

I. M. Sheffield Jr., associate of Director Dobbs, whose quota had been set at $1,000, turned in checks totalling $1,325. F. W. Bialock underwrote $250 and Alfred Thompson $250. A. Steve Clay pledged $150.

Chairman Belle Isle announced he would complete soon the organization of his assistants and an intensive drive would be carried.

resigned and was succeeded by J. H. Lott.

T. Grady Head, who resigned earlier as revenue commissioner, told the Associated Press he would not accept an assistant attorney generalship, but would enter private law practice at Ringgold, his home.

The most complete shake-up thus far accomplished was in the comptroller general's office, where only one official, W. R. Mitchell—who was named deputy insurance commissioner—and the porter, Floyd South, were retained from the retiring administration. Otherwise, the staff is brand-new.

Departments expected by the observers to be hardest hit are highway, agriculture, welfare, revenue, purchases, military, natural resources and industrial. These were merely mentioned as outstanding targets, without any intention to suggest that divisions or subdivisions of the state structure would be overlooked.

Efforts Futile.
Efforts to get exact numbers of persons already discharged were unsuccessful for the moment, except in the case of the comptroller-general's office and purchasing department. Numerous officials admitted they would be unable to say what steps would be taken until Talmadge had returned from Washington. Then, it was promised by each major department head, full lists of those fired and their successors will be supplied to The Constitution.

In the state purchasing department, there had been four changes besides the appointment of H. Carson Smith, of Lawrenceville, to succeed O. G. Glover as supervisor. Smith, who has about 48 employees, said he would try eventually to get along with half that number.

The one outstanding exception among what were termed the branches of government normally affected by political shifts was Ben T. Huiet's labor group. All but about eight or ten, forming his immediate staff, are exempt by civil service because of federal financing of their various functions.

Taking everything into account, the state employs 8,769 persons. Thousands of these, however, are spread over the state at posts in which they are not easily replaceable. It was wholly a matter of conjecture what eventually would happen to them.

had been turned loose through the mass pardoning of Governor Rivers.

Senator Wilmer D. Lanier, of the 18th, suggested that the various senate committees conduct their own investigations, explaining that their duties extended further than the mere consideration of bills.

"We hear so much gossip going on under the guise or name of facts that we don't really know what the facts are," he asserted. "Gossip has no place in the senate."

If such conditions exist they result from the failure of the committees to recognize their duties," he continued. "The committees have authority to go into these matters. I am not asking anyone to believe in advance that anyone in a department is a thief, but when the faith of the people is shaken in their government, it is up to the senators and representatives to clear the atmosphere again."

Flays Rivers.
A vigorous critic of the Rivers administration, Senator Edwards charged that the present conditions were "caused by a leader who attempted to philander and to put the state in bankruptcy to feather his own nest."

"Every department of the state has been financially honeycombed," he said. "Debts are lying unpaid because the money has been used for something else. We are going to have to trim to the core, trim until we bring blood. If the state of Georgia were not a political subdivision it could not survive."

Turning again to conditions in the prison camps, Edwards declared, "There are not many left in the chain gang and those that are left are well supplied with clothes. They have 20 blankets and eight pairs of pants apiece."

"We, as a law-making body, are in a most trying position. I hope we can hold our expenses down and start real economy right here. Can't Pay Bill.

"If the people of this state knew what the actual situation is they would hang their heads in shame. We've got to cut everything down. We can come out of it and it's up to us to do it."

Senator Fortson declared that the deficit in the wildlife department was $5,542.34 and added he thought it was a shame when the incoming head of the department was unable to pay his telephone bill.

Fortson said he thought there was "some purpose" behind this deficit and added he thought the senate should look into the departments.

"There have been numerous articles praising the Wildlife Department but to behold Zach Cravey gives me a list of bills which makes me think there has been a flagrant abuse on the state."

"Drop in Bucket."

"You are talking about only a drop in the bucket," interposed Edwards, president pro tem. of the senate. He said the state owed more than $32,000,000, charged $110,000 worth of blankets, had been bought "without competitive bids at one time."

Senator John H. McGehee, of the 25th district, declared that "everybody is for economy and yet when we come to vote we vote for all appropriations. We will get nowhere on an economy program unless we are willing to do the things we want. The Governor struck the keynote when he proposed to reduce his own salary."

The senate took no action on the suggestions for investigation but so far no committees have been announced and their personnel will not be known until the middle of next week, Senate President Charles D. Redwine said.

Under a joint resolution, both the house and senate adjourned until next Wednesday morning at 10 o'clock to permit some of the members to attend inauguration of President Roosevelt in Washington Monday.

Marietta Road
Barred to Trucks

Freight-hauling trucks yesterday were barred from using the new Marietta highway by unanimous action of the Fulton county commission.

The commissioners adopted a resolution prohibiting trucks from the roadway from the city limits to the Cobb county line under authority of a 1937 law which gives the group the right to declare which are congested districts and to regulate traffic in them. Buses, trucks of the various government agencies and subdivisions and those in national defense work were not prohibited.

City Opens Move
For Annexations

Early steps looking towards annexation of highly industrialized and thickly populated areas adjacent to Atlanta were assured yesterday when city council's ordinance committee established a sub-committee to confer with Raymond W. Torras, engineer-secretary of the city planning commission, in preparing a proposed city limits extension program.

Alderman Ed A. Gilliam, ordinance committee chairman, and Aldermen Frank H. Reynolds and Councilman William T. Knight comprise the committee.

Welfare Agency
Postpones Tests

Merit examinations in the State Department of Public Welfare were postponed yesterday as Welfare Director B. S. Miller discharged S. E. Hamrick, supervisor of examinations, and replaced him with W. L. Brophy, of Rhine.

"We have called off the examinations for the present but we are going ahead with them later," Miller said.

He said one secretary for the examination board was discharged along with Hamrick, out that the merit board had not been abolished.

Rules Adopted
For Operating Prison FarmConstruction Chief Tells Committee More Labor Is Needed.

Fifteen new rules for operation of the city prison farm, about which a controversy has raged recently, were adopted yesterday by city council's public works and prison committee and dispatched to Superintendent H. H. Gibson for enforcement.

The action was taken after Clarke Donaldson, chief of construction, told committee members the department must have more prison labor or he would be forced to ask $4,800 to hire men to do the work which should be done by prisoners.

Chief among the rules was one providing that all available white and Negro men must be detailed to the construction department.

This was approved after Donaldson said his department needed 140 men a day and that it averaged getting only 60 a day last year.

Among other new regulations are white women prisoners must remain in their quarters at all times; city property must remain on city-owned property; all work done by the city must be on city property; all city property now on privately owned property must be moved to city-owned property immediately; no city property may be loaned, exchanged or sold without council consent; no one but occasional state, county or city officials are to be dined at the prison farm; prisoners' sentences cannot be terminated except by properly filled-out papers signed by the recorder who presided at the trial and the mayor; money in escrow for completion of the new building must be expended only as permitted by the DeKalb county superior courts; the chairman of the prison and public works committee (Councilman George B. Lyle) shall have supervisory authority over the farm during recess of the committee.

Albany. Influenza has had no noticeable effect on city schools, J. O. Allen, superintendent, reports. Average daily attendance up to normal.

Albany had its flu "epidemic" before Christmas and has recovered. At that time nearly 500 absentees were reported daily. Peak believed definitely passed.

Flu at Peak; 21,500 Absent From Schools

Parents Urged To Send Children to Classes If They're Well.

More than 21,500 of the 92,000 students in the Atlanta metropolitan area were absent from classes yesterday, but school and health officials said the large number of absentees was due more to precautionary steps taken by parents than to any spread of the flu epidemic.

The schools will continue open. Superintendent Jere Wells, of the Fulton school system, frankly said it was, in most cases, better for a child to be in the schoolroom than to be free to run around the home in this rainy weather. Wells pointed out that if schools were closed now the days missed would have to be made up on Saturdays or by extending the term into June—either of which would work greater hardships on parents than keeping schools open now.

Health officials believe the flu epidemic is at its peak. City health department records show 170 new cases of influenza in the city yesterday as compared with 153 new cases Wednesday. But for the week, only 557 cases have been recorded so far, compared with 853 cases for last week.

Wells estimates that 20 per cent of the 25,000 county school children are out with the flu. DeKalb officials say about 15 per cent of their 30,000 school children have the ailment, and in the city schools, where records are only available for the white elementary grades, 6,100 were absent yesterday as compared with 6,500 Wednesday. Best estimates put the total number of absentees from city schools at about 12,000.

Thomaston. Approximately 1,500 cases reported in Upson county and Thomaston. City schools are open, but several county schools have been ordered closed.

Cities, Towns Throughout State Report on Influenza Situation

Flu conditions reports from throughout Georgia were received yesterday as follows:

Fort Benning. Approximately 20 per cent of the construction workers at Fort Benning over a period of several weeks have lost time from work because of influenza. Charles Frank Williams, contracting company head, revealed today. Hundreds of other workers have been affected by flu, but have stuck to their jobs despite their illness. Upward of 2,000 workers, including sub-contractors, plumbers, carpenters and other workmen of all descriptions, are engaged on the Fort Benning projects, and fully 400 of this army of workmen have suffered in some degree from flu.

Athens. Tonight's University of Georgia-Vanderbilt basketball game will be closed to the general public because of flu's prevalence on the campus. Only players, coaches, managers, timers, scorers and sports writers will be permitted in the hall. University classes are continuing as usual, but all sorority and fraternity functions scheduled for the week end have been ordered postponed.

Blakely. About 20 per cent of the city's 3,000 population have or have had flu since the infection began here in early December. Cases, reported widespread in Early county, are generally mild.

Hawkinsville. Increase of about 75 per cent in number of cases noted since 10 days ago. City schools report only about 20 absentees, and county schools about 60.

Hartwell. Spread of cases in Hart county believed at its peak. Several schools have been closed. Dr. W. E. McCurry, board of health chairman, does not advise closing of all schools, since most cases are mild.

Americus. All city schools have been closed because of influenza.

Monroe. Schools reopened yesterday after being closed 10 days, and spread is believed under control.

Buchanan. Infection is reported widespread in Haralson county, with Bremen schools and at least one industrial plant closed. Buchanan school remains open, though several pupils and teachers have been stricken. Haralson superior court is expected to convene on schedule Monday.

Richland. Flu has reduced school attendance sharply in the last 10 days, but classes and other public assemblies are continuing as usual.

Austell. Austell's school was closed Tuesday as a precautionary measure, and will reopen next Tuesday.

Social Circle. Schools were closed Wednesday for remainder of week after one-third of enrollment was reported absent. Spread of flu believed to be on increase, with all lines of business and many homes affected.

Canton. Canton, North Canton and Negro schools closed, and more than 150 pupils reported absent in the city schools alone. More than 100 cases reported among cotton mill workers, with one doctor estimating "at least one case of flu to every house in Canton."

Franklin. Schools operating as usual, but with many pupils remaining away as a precaution against infection. The number of cases, all mild, is reported growing fewer.

Brunswick. Absences estimated at between 30 and 40 per cent brought closing of Glynn county schools Wednesday. Dr. M. E. Winchester, county health commissioner, estimates 1,000 cases in Brunswick, in addition to those elsewhere in the county, but most cases are mild.

Easton. Number of flu cases in Putnam county estimated by health officials to have been doubled in past week. Schools are operating despite low attendance and absence of many teachers. With both of Easton's physicians ill, victims of illness are forced to depend on doctors from nearby cities.

Columbus. Schools are in operation, and Dr. Paul M. Munro, city school superintendent, reports absences are decreasing daily, since admission is being refused to any child reporting for classes with so much as a cough. Many business houses report one or more employees out with flu.

Lumpkin. Cases have increased slightly in past week, but they are reported mild and scattered. Schools operating.

Vidalia. Dr. J. E. Mercer reports the number of cases brought to his attention increased from "only two or three" to more than 75 in less than a week. Many cases reported in schools, with as many as 15 in one class.

Sandersville. About 75 cases reported at the Tennille CCC camp, but only about a score in other parts of Washington county. Cases increasing among school children, but schools still operating. Dr. O. L. Rogers, county health commissioner, anticipates and is preparing for an increased spread.

Swainsboro. Swainsboro, Adrian and Canoochee High schools closed Tuesday until Monday, due to increasing number of absences among pupils and teachers. Other schools may be closed unless situation improves immediately. Only an occasional case of flu was reported the first week of this month. Measles is reported also increasing in Swainsboro and Adrian.

Barnesville. Number of cases has increased 50 per cent since a week ago. Dr. J. A. Cory reports, but type is mild generally. Colonel J. E. Guilbeau, president of Gordon Military College, reports 20 boys in the college infirmary, none seriously ill.

Moultrie. Influenza has shown sharp increase in past week in Moultrie and Colquitt county, but most schools continue to operate, with attendances averaging 75 to 80 per cent.

Cairo. Scores are ill of flu in Cairo and Grady county, but doctors express belief spread has reached peak. Judge G. L. Worthing, of city court, adjourned the January term this week until February 10 because of the illness of jurors and others. City and county schools operating as usual. Number of cases of flu at state highway camp has dropped sharply since the peak two weeks ago.

Fort Valley. Situation improved. Fort Valley Consolidated schools have not closed, though Superintendent J. F. Lambert estimates 14 per cent absences. Only 100 pupils, out of a total enrollment of 700, absent due to illness, compared with 200 last week. Peach superior court in session after a week's adjournment due to illness of court officials.

Jackson. More cases are reported in Jackson and Butts county than a week ago, but schools are running on normal schedule. Attendance is reduced. Reported cases of flu are mild.

Lafayette. Between 25 and 30 per cent of Walker county school children are absent from classes because of flu, but schools are operating as usual. Situation is improving, Dr. P. M. Golley, county health commissioner, reports.

Douglas. Between 300 and 400 mild cases reported in Coffee county by Dr. I. E. Simmons, health commissioner, compared with between 50 and 75 a week ago. Public schools, churches and theaters are closed. South Georgia College operating as usual, with only about a dozen cases in its student body of about 350. Peak believed passed.

Sylvester. Spread of flu in Worth county is reported mild, and County School Superintendent M. C. Owen says not enough cases have been reported to necessitate closing schools.

Dalton. More than 500 cases of flu reported to Dr. Charles F. Engelking, county health commissioner, in Dalton and Whitfield county, with number increasing daily. City school absences range from 10 to 20 per cent. County School Superintendent reports few cases have developed in rural schools.

Cuthbert. Andrew College has escaped without a case of flu since or before Christmas. Cuthbert has a mild epidemic of cases, all light.

Vaycross. Dr. George E. Atwood, Ware county health commissioner, estimates about 500 cases of flu reported during week ended Wednesday, with four cases of pneumonia.

Sparta. Several rural schools closed Wednesday, but all city schools operating.

All Hancock county schools closed after absences mounted to about 50 per cent of enrollment. Health Officer I. H. Moore said he believed peak has been reached, and that schools will reopen Monday unless more cases develop. Most cases mild.

Fort Gaines. City schools closed for remainder of week, with several teachers and a third of student body absent because of illness. Southern Clay county affected only slightly. Cases in Fort Gaines estimated at about three times the number a week ago.

Sylvania. Five of the largest schools in Screven county have closed.

Homerville. School attendance low, but classes are continuing.

LaGrange. City School Superintendent B. A. Lancaster reports 15 per cent of city's 5,000 enrollment absent, compared with about 7 per cent last week. County Superintendent J. H. Melson reports only five per cent of 2,000 enrollment absent, or about normal. LaGrange College reports less than half of the 15 cases reported last week. S. C. Rutland, of county health office, reports situation at standstill, compared with definitely increasing number of cases last week. He reports approximately 300 mild cases now active.

Bremen. About 250 cases of flu have necessitated the closing of two plants of the Sewell Manufacturing Company, the Bremen Mills, and all Bremen schools.

Illustrious She Is

Eyewitness reports of the dive bombing attacks on the British plane carrier Illustrious afford a clue which naval and air experts have been awaiting with bated breaths since the start of the war. And there will be many a sigh of relief in naval circles.

The attacks prove that a modern war vessel of sufficient tonnage to carry heavy armor and adequate antiaircraft artillery can withstand terrific punishment from the most fearsome weapon devised by the air arm—the dive bomber—without being entirely crippled. Severe damage there was, but the carrier was not put out of action in a seven-hour battering—the heaviest air attack ever made on a single warship—and apparently will be able to take its place with the fleet after superficial repairs. It is striking that a reporter aboard the vessel said that only two of the ship's guns had been put out of action when the final attack was made.

The Illustrious is the most modern of British carriers, and was completed after the lessons of early days of the war had been assimilated by the British admiralty. The reports indicate a terrific volume of fire power which must have had considerable effect upon the aim of the bombers, as well as taking the measure of at least two of the planes. Carrier-based planes were able to account for at least 10 others. Later, bombers of the RAF, possibly from a carrier, destroyed still others at their land base of Cantara. All-in-all it is indicated the attack was as costly to the air arm as it was to the naval vessel. Certainly the loss of probably 20 planes in one day's operation which did not put the primary object of the attack on the convoy out of action, even though badly wounded, was costly.

One fact which is not divulged, but which is of great importance, is whether or not the carrier's planes could be landed on her flight deck after the attacks. Naturally, operation of a plane carrier in war time presupposes the sacrifice of the plane complement, possibly the rescue of some by smaller ships after forced landings in the open sea, but if necessary the loss of all if the flight deck of the carrier has been seriously damaged. Even though the flight deck had been damaged by a bomb or bombs, it still might be possible to land planes because of the efficiency of the arresting apparatus. However, it will be of primary importance to know whether or not some or all or none of the planes could be taken aboard after the violent attack.

The outcome of the attack on the Illustrious probably will be judged almost conclusive by naval experts who have anxiously awaited the first verdict in a clear-cut test of air against naval power. If such an attack cannot be successfully carried out against an airplane carrier, the most vulnerable of heavy warships, then the value of battleships remains inescapably enhanced and the judgment of our naval officers vindicated.

There are, however, certain lessons which cannot be taken lightly. The most important is that of the necessity for terrific vertical fire power, both in the category of 30,000-foot ranges and in the lower ranges in which smaller semi-automatic guns can be concentrated against dive bombers. The second is the problem of combating the destructive effects of "near-misses," which in this engagement apparently contributed heavily to the damage to the carrier. The third encompasses a study of methods of quick repair to flight decks with prepared materials to permit landing of carrier-based planes after a damaging attack. The answer possibly will be found in the lessons learned by army engineers in the quick replacement or repair of damaged bridges.

All will agree that the Illustrious indeed was well named. She came through with flying colors. Hitler again stubbed his toe against the British navy!

Social Security At Work

The social security law, under which workers and employers contribute each payday toward the fund for retirement age benefits and unemployment compensation, is functioning with increasing effectiveness as the months and years roll by.

A recent report from headquarters of the department, in Washington, reveals that approximately 1,000 claims for retirement benefits are now being approved daily. In the first eleven months of 1940 237,000 such claims were approved. Benefit payments to those who have reached the retirement age of 65 now total $4,250,000 a month.

On the other side of the picture it is illuminating to discover that unemployment payments shrank from $56,000,000 in July of last year, to $29,600,000 in November.

Further evidence of increased employment is shown in figures of the United States Employment Service. In November the number of all registered unemployed was 4,500,000, less than half as many as were registered earlier in the year. Placements in 1940 by the service were more than 3,500,000.

All of which paints an encouraging picture for the future. The saving in unemployment payments largely offsets the increase in retirement benefits, while at the same time it is good to realize that, when old age arrives, the contributions all have made to financial security are a certain help in the later years of life. More than 52,000,000 men and women now have these social security accounts.

Fulton Fireworks

There should be little, if any, opposition to a bill introduced in the Georgia house by Representative Helen Douglas Mankin. This is a measure to forbid the sale or discharge of fireworks in Fulton county. It merely extends a regulation which now applies to the city of Atlanta, in the form of a city ordinance, to cover the entire county. It applies to no other county in the state, and is a matter earnestly desired by a majority of Fulton's citizenship.

The ordinance has worked well in Atlanta. It has practically eliminated accidents caused by fireworks on such holidays as July Fourth and has relieved parental hearts of much anxiety when youngsters set forth to celebrate such patriotic anniversaries.

It certainly does not lessen the spirit of patriotism and effects a large saving, both in human suffering and sorrow and in property damage.

The bill introduced by Representative Mankin forbidding fireworks anywhere in the county should, and undoubtedly will, promptly pass as rapidly as it can go through the machinery of legislation.

A heart specialist points out that one session at poker may shorten a man's life a year. For faster action, in the old west, they introduced a fifth ace.

Common Sense

The United States Supreme Court displayed sound common sense in its finding in the case of two California men convicted of espionage on behalf of Soviet Russia.

The court ruled, in sustaining the convictions, that reports secured by these men from naval intelligence files are a part of this nation's plan for national defense and that it is not necessary, as contended by the defendants, for the prosecution to prove the information obtained was to be used to the injury of the United States.

Were it necessary to prove such intent to injure, it would be necessary for the defendants in such cases to convict themselves. For they could, otherwise, go free on their assertion they had "meant no harm." Which is reductio ad absurdum.

Editorial Symposium

ADDING UP DEFENSE COSTS

"The price of liberty comes mighty high these days, but the price is none too high, if we could but realize what loss of those liberties would mean to us," says the GRAND RAPIDS HERALD, which adds: "We shall pay heavily to preserve our independence, but all of that is worth the cost."

With that thought as an overture, many American newspapers sound the call for unity and action in connection with American defense and aid-for-Britain costs, even while they look askance at the $17,500,000,000 budget measure placed before the country. However, "It is a tribute to this great democracy that it has the foresight to spend to prevent war on almost the scale it spent when it was actually at war," asserts the PHILADELPHIA RECORD, while the BOSTON GLOBE believes "The President has done his best. It is upon the responsibility of the congress to insist upon drastic analysis of every item of general expenditure to the end that a much more substantial reduction is ordered" in non-defense costs. At the same time, the COLUMBUS DISPATCH feels that "Naturally the country is united behind Mr. Roosevelt on the principle of adequate defense. . . . But it wants defense, not war; not imperialism, nor yet national bankruptcy."

"The budget does not include the financial aid we shall have to give to Britain, again as a vital matter of our self-defense," points out the SAN FRANCISCO CHRONICLE, which estimates "our expenditures for defense up to the end of the coming year will hardly be less than thirty billions." The CHRONICLE sees "much" depending "on the promptness with which we get help now to Britain and Greece and China. Every success we can help them to now is calculated to shorten the time of danger." And the CHARLOTTE OBSERVER feels the budget "impressively sets forth the dollars-and-cents cost of war to a people who must for the moment and only at best prepare themselves to keep from engaging in war."

THE CAPITAL PARADE

By JOSEPH ALSOP AND ROBERT KINTNER.

WILLKIE, ROOSEVELT AND HULL. WASHINGTON, Jan. 16.—Because of the flood of rumors about Wendell L. Willkie's boldy forthright response to the President's lease-lend plan to aid Britain, the background of his action both deserves and requires to be set forth.

Contrary to the common impression, Willkie consulted no one beyond the circle of his closest personal intimates before deciding to issue a statement approving the lease-lend bill in principle. He made his decision alone, and for two reasons which do him considerable credit.

In the first place, he is convinced that if Britain falls and Germany achieves the domination of the world, the American life we know cannot withstand the ensuing economic and political pressure. With such a conviction, he feels it incumbent on him to sink factionalism, and as the most successful recent leader of the Republican opposition, to support the President's policy whenever he can. Secondly, he is deeply disturbed by the transparent effort of such party chieftains as Senators Robert A. Taft and Arthur H. Vandenberg, former President Hoover and Thomas E. Dewey, to make the Republican party a sort of isolationist house organ. And even though it means the end of his own political career, he is determined to oppose them.

Such were the points Willkie considered during a day of quiet counsel-taking with Willkie, after the lease-lend bill had been introduced in congress. By the end of the day, the Republican bigwigs had already begun to fulminate against the bill. They tipped the balance in Willkie's mind. He thereupon began work on his statement.

THAT TRIP TO LONDON. As sometimes happens, the business of writing for Willkie to reduce his thoughts to exact order. On re-examining and classifying them, he found that he had no doubts at all as to the significance of the war's outcome, but was not satisfied with his information about the current war picture. Some time before, while working on a projected magazine article on foreign policy, he had conceived the notion of going to London to find out for himself how things stood. Now it seemed to him that such a trip of personal investigation would greatly enhance his usefulness as a leader of the "loyal opposition."

While in Washington at the Gridiron dinner, he had seen and talked with Secretary of State Cordell Hull. Hull had cordially invited him to ask for information, or otherwise employ the State Department's facilities, whenever he chose. Accordingly he telephoned Hull, told him of what he planned and asked whether he might have a passport. Hull, though friendly, asked for a couple of hours to "think the thing over." Willkie, well knowing who would be Hull's companion in thought, waited anxiously until Hull called back.

When he did so, Hull was evidently greatly pleased. He explained to Willkie that he had talked to the President, that the President warmly approved Willkie's plan, and that he had asked to have an invitation transmitted to Willkie, to visit the White House if he wished before leaving for London. Hull added that while Willkie would in no sense be an authorized emissary, he would be glad to give him a personal letter, requesting British officials to extend appropriate courtesies to a distinguished private citizen. Willkie then told Hull that he intended to take with him two private friends, the New York philanthropist, Landon K. Thorne, and the able publisher of the Des Moines Register and Tribune, John Cowles. Thus the trip was arranged.

AVOIDED POLITICAL EDITING. With the problem of the trip out of the way, Willkie finished his statement very rapidly. Experience had taught him that political editing made most statements quite meaningless in their caution. He did not show his handiwork even to his political allies. Instead, after taking the opinions of one or two advisers on style, he made it public forthwith.

As a result, in the crash term of practical politics, Willkie is extremely likely to be "rolled" when the Republicans pick a new national chairman on March 15. Had he played the isolationists' and appeasers' game, he might well have used his huge national following to force a choice of his own. Had he simply kept his mouth shut, his enemies would probably have had to compromise with him, but placing national above factional interest is so strange to most practical politicians, both Democratic and Republican, that Willkie has probably put out of the running anyone he could support for the chairmanship.

INCREASED STATURE. In larger terms, however, he has as they detest him, even the isolationists cannot doubt the disinterestedness of Willkie's action. As he has proven he can be generous and disinterested, he has gained force as a public figure—force which will be still further increased when he returns from Britain to submit an independent report on the facts of the war situation. While he may not have directly changed many votes in congress, he has done the best possible service to his cause, by evoking an immense response from his friends all over the country. And congress will be affected, in the end, by the public opinion Willkie has so greatly helped to shape.

SILHOUETTES

By RALPH T. JONES.

Mist Over The City. It is Wednesday afternoon, as this is written.

The streets are shining with the wetness of the rain. Smoke from the chimney across the way drifts, lazily and low. The street sounds are subdued. Occasionally an automobile horn makes its plaintive plea for right of way, and at intervals there is the dull rumble of a streetcar, rocking over the switches.

Pedestrians hurry, hidden beneath the spread of umbrellas, and as autos swish through the rain the tracks of their passing are left, for a little while, on the glistening cement, to gradually fade away as the rain erases them.

Lights are lit in the office buildings, pin points in the gloom, and there is a gray mist that seems to hover, just above the roofs, and which shrouds into vignetted dimness the outlines of more distant structures.

It is as though some great gray beast, a cat, perhaps, had settled over the city, smothering it in a blanket of impalpable substance.

Infectious Somnolence.

The pall of dimness is infectious. As I sit in my office chair, staring through the window, eyelids grow heavy and my head nods. I wish there was a couch or cot here, so I could stretch out and catch a 30-minute nap. A blanket of mist upon the city. Hiding, perhaps, from eyes above who knows what evil, what human frailties, what secret things. Three hundred thousand human souls, each striving for some little achievement, each planning and dreaming some deed they'd like to do.

At such a time, we feel closer, somehow, and yet more distant from the personalities around us. Closer, because we feel we are co-occupiers of this shrouded, condensed city. More distant because we realize, again, how foreign are the thoughts and dreams and desires of each one of us from all the others.

If I could but glimpse within the heart and mind and soul of this man who sits at the next table to mine, at lunch, I'd know something of the omnipotence of God, wouldn't I?

All Like Sheep, Yet Individuals. Humanity has many things in common with sheep. We follow intangible shepherds and live in herds, obeying simple laws and rules and commands.

We wear black shoes, or brown or white, because the rule of the herd has so decreed. We cover our nakedness with trousers and coat, strange anachronistic garments, to be sure, instead of a simple sheet or loin cloth. We eat at midday, because custom so decrees, and when we eat we perch upon a stool or stick our knees beneath a table because it is the usual thing.

We obey the time clock and appear at office or shop or forge at a given hour and we leave that place where we give ourselves into daily slavery, at a given hour. We sell ourselves into that daily slavery to the machine of civilization, to the surface of that we are permitted to eat, to wear, to sleep and to sleep beneath a roof.

We amuse ourselves with great crowds of others seeking the same diversion and we even pray to our God in unison and follow the ritual set forth in our worship of the Divine.

We eat, we drink, we pray, we sleep, we are merry or sad, all according to custom and the ordained manner of such things.

FAIR ENOUGH

By WESTBROOK PEGLER.

The Old Sack Trick. NEW YORK, Jan. 16.—It must amuse the Communists and the Nazis to observe the squirming of the American people in desperate struggle to escape Communism and Nazism, which are pretty much the same.

The more we wiggle and writhe the tighter our bonds are drawn like the cords enmeshing the victim of a riddling prank known as the sack trick which the bootleggers sometimes practiced on their friends in the days of prohibition. To free the world of this dreadful thing and protect American civilization from it we resort to the very thing we loathe and fear, and it is only a wish and not a promise to our people that when the war is over the people of the United States will again break ranks and discipline as in 1918 and 1919. How can we ever know that we have won the war, presuming that we will go to war and win, when they that time there will be a few minor peculiarities to distinguish our brand of government from that which we are so determined to put down?

Does anyone believe seriously, I wonder, that private ownership will survive this war, and have we not been observing already, in peace time, eight years of unremitting effort from the top of the government and all down through the departments of the national administration to establish some form of Socialism?

Millions. I suppose some leaders of labor unions really do believe in their dull, dumby way that it is a fine thing, to herd all the workers of a huge nation together in two great organizations, or better still, in one organization. But the Communists and Nazis must find humor in that, knowing, as they do, what a handy, ready-made tool would be with which to boss all labor from one desk in one government office.

Already millions of patriotic Americans are caught in unions—some of them willingly and suspecting no danger, others by force of coercion—and are now subject to orders from above.

We find Sidney Hillman, a Socialist of some kind who has traveled to Moscow, in command of labor's effort in the national defense, and nowhere are there any signs that the government is repudiating the Communists and party-liners in the labor board and other departments. Gathered together in the unions, labor now can be told, and will be told, politely at first and bluntly as time passes, to forget any frivolous notions that unions are free organizations and their own masters.

The labor leaders, like the industrial leaders in Germany, will be allowed to keep their nominal authority only as long as they please the government, and when private ownership of industry has passed to the government, they will be employed by the government and will obey the boss as a patriotic duty.

Opinion In Press. In a very short time now opinion in the press will be curbed in the interests of the great national effort to preserve freedom of speech, thought and writing, for already the feeling is on the rise that criticism of the President or resistance to his plans is obstructive and wrong.

Strange it is that so many of us see Fascism or Nazism in the minds of those who oppose regimentation of men and the confiscation, by indirect means, of property when the reverse is true. Fascism and Nazism are based on regimentation and confiscation. And, of course, the Communists are delighted by every new step in the direction of Fascism or Nazism, because, after all, their aim differs only in degree, they are so close to ourselves, but the enemies, including Russia and the Communists here, can see that already we have had to adopt their own ways to deal with them on even terms in our international relations.

We can tell the American way goodby now.

Word Stories. By W. Worthington Wells.

After the attempted shooting of the Duchess of Kent, last year, Mrs. Roosevelt made the following comment in her newspaper column, "My Day": "When I bought my newspaper in the Poughkeepsie station yesterday morning, I was excited over the news of the shot fired at the Duchess of Kent. How precariously royalty exists."

PRECARIOUS. An adjective pronounced pre-CAR-ious. The syllable (car), which is pronounced like care. The (i) is short as in it, and (ous) is pronounced like (us).

Precariously is the adverb, and it also has the accent on the second syllable.

Whenever you have occasion to use the words insecure and uncertain but feel the need for a stronger word, precarious is the adjective to use. It implies complete dependence upon circumstances, the will or pleasure of others, upon the possibility of accidents, continued risks or danger. Royalty exists precariously because there is the ever-present danger of being assassinated.

The sick man had a precarious hold on life. The boy earned his precarious living by shining shoes.

Twenty-Five Years Ago Today. From the news columns of Monday, January 17, 1916:

"An innovation in Atlanta's church life will be offered next Friday night at 8:15 o'clock when the curtain rises on a strong morality play, entitled 'The Starry Way,' at the Unitarian church, 301 West Peachtree street."

And Fifty Years Ago. From the news columns of Saturday, January 17, 1891:

"Fort Valley now has a public library, a library association having been formed by popular subscription."

ONE WORD MORE

By RALPH MCGILL.

SLOWLY TOWARD WAR. By looking at the national and international scene we may see how we slowly but surely, and step by step, are moving toward war.

We already are in the shallows. It may be we will pull back before deep water is reached, but all odds point to a seemingly inevitable approach to, and entry in, the World War.

Secretary of State Hull, the tall Tennessean who holds the nation's respect and confidence in estimates of the international situation, spoke Wednesday and told congress that President Roosevelt's loan-lease plan is the only solution for England's financial problems. Secretary of the Treasury Morgenthau, who knows the financial position of England, informed congress of the financial plight. England will be able to pay us but $3,000,000,000 this year in exchange for war materials. And that is small change in this war.

Secretary of State Hull also told congress, realistically, that we may be drawn into the war regardless of the course pursued.

The nation does not seem to realize we are moving toward war. It is important this fact be realized because, when war comes, it will have a very tremendous effect on all our lives.

I can see no other course but to aid England. We must do it to save our own interests. We must do it to save our own system of government and our own liberties. And we know, or must know, that aid to England eventually means war.

It is well to distrust all those who seek to make of it a holy war; who would clothe it in the armor of righteousness. It is a war in which our own interests and liberties are in danger. Therefore we must protect them.

HONEST APPROACH. There is no altruism in this war and no side is free of blame, not even our side.

England helped Germany arm. And so did France. It was English money and English arms which made Germany strong. And French airplane engines were going to Germany until the time of the Polish invasion. England helped make Germany strong in the fond belief she was arming a nation which would fight Russia and that the two ideologies would destroy one another. France followed her ally.

Not only did England help make Hitler strong but they let him win victory after victory—the Ruhr, the Rhine, and, finally, Austria, and the beginning of the major victories.

The United States went into the other war and, while we did not win it, it would have been lost without us. We tipped the scale toward victory with our men and, more important, our money and our supplies.

Had we gone into the League of Nations, as Woodrow Wilson asked us to do, all this might not have happened. That is debatable. But it is, I think, true. Many of the chickens mentioned by the late Woodrow Wilson have come home to roost. Certainly, if we went into the war we should have had a hand in the eventualities following it.

As it was, the nations fell apart. Trade barriers were set up. Wilson believed in free trade and predicted the dire results of barriers such as were set up. Selfishness ruled. And all the bitterness and suffering of the post-war period, unalleviated by the Allies and ignored by us, helped create Hitler. And, once created, to save the nation from Communism, England and France helped make him strong and established his government on a firm basis.

Those are hard facts. But true ones. It is a terrible thing that out of this welter of selfishness and greed and double dealing, there should come a situation which demands of us a struggle to save our own liberties and our own government.

WE MUST AID ENGLAND. As matters now stand we must help England. We must do it in a hurry. We may not be able to send help in time. At any rate, we must hurry.

England's position is not good. It is extremely dangerous. Secretary Hull did not ask for convoys. Very sensibly said we had no right to seize the ships of warring or neutral nations now in our harbors. Those ships do not belong to nations but to private business firms. For us to take them would be to commit the very crimes for which we condemn Hitler. If we are standing for the restoration of international law and international decency, we can't do it by violating the law. Only if we go to war may we take those ships.

But, since we must aid England, it is obvious that there is no use manufacturing guns and tanks and planes for England unless she can get them.

So, it may be necessary for us to convoy them. If so, then we should go to war rather than to be dragged into it by an attack on our convoys. Because Germany assuredly will attack, if she can, any convoy taking goods to England.

Hitler has dirtied up the world. He has reached into every life, no matter how obscure. But he had help as he prepared to dirty it up.

It seems to me to be highly important we keep the facts of this war always before us; that we avoid any hysteria or propaganda efforts to make it a holy war.

With all the faults of our own government and of England, it is a fact that the human being has more liberty and more opportunity and more happiness under that form of government.

And that's why we've got to help England. And that's why we may have to fight.

And that's the only reason.

The Dinosaurs Were Doomed

When They Failed To Make Themselves Fit To Survive

By ROBERT QUILLEN.

Oswald Spengler knows mankind and speaks with authority. In "The Decline of the West" he speaks to our civilization in words we cannot safely ignore:

"You are dying. I see in you all the characteristic stigma of decay. I can prove to you that your great wealth and your great poverty to your capitalism and your socialism, your wars and your revolutions, your atheism and your pessimism and your cynicism, your immorality, your broken-down marriages, your birth control, that is bleeding you from the bottom and killing you off at the top and in the brains—I can prove to you that those were characteristic marks of the dying ages of ancient states—Alexandria and Greece and neurotic Rome."

This is a diagnosis, and we know it is correct. Does it then mean that we must go the way of the glory that was Greece and the grandeur that was Rome? Is there no cure for our malady? We alone can furnish the answer.

When sane men find themselves traveling the wrong road, their first thought is to stop and turn back. Their second is to find the path that is right.

We know we are on the right road in our quest for material benefits, for we have multiplied the productivity of our soil and our factories so that now we can produce abundance for all.

But the social and spiritual course we are following must be wrong, for it is strewn with the wreckage of our hopes and carpeted with pitfalls.

History shows that nations often are rejuvenated by defeat. This is a natural process, for men and nations can rebuild only on the bedrock of humility. The beginning of reform is to be ashamed of what we are.

To save the soul of America, we must shed our complacent arrogance and get to our knees. We must regain the qualities that ennobled the best of our fathers: a deep sense of honor, a high pride in decency, a burning scorn for all things foul at base, a simple faith in God, a compelling sense of duty, a cheerful acceptance of obligation to family, community and state, and a passionate love of liberty and belief in the dignity of man.

The material that built a great nation is the right stuff to repair it.

Poet Reeves Calls On Congress To Explain Things

Dear Gentlemen of the Congress: I now take my pen in hand to inquire about some matters which I do not understand. How well I call to mind your campaign speeches and the facts you gave us on your plans to save us money on our tax.

I note you're making loans to China; yet you send the Japs scrap iron and other junk to blow the Chinese off the map. While I'm heartily in favor of the help you give the Chinks, there is something in the aid to Japs that, shall I say it, stinks.

You talk in terms of dollars that are countless as the stars and the I-O-U's you've pledged to pay would reach from here to Mars. It may be that I'm partly Scotch is why I dinna

Getting Organized

The task of organizing Georgia for the "fight on infantile paralysis" is going on rapidly and the daily and weekly newspapers are devoting a great deal of space to this "polio drive."

System did it, of course. With Ellis Arnall as general chairman and Lilyan Starr as secretary of "the Georgia Committee for Celebration of the President's Birthday," chairmen have been found for every congressional district and these, in turn, have appointed chairmen for the counties.

Pretty soon the contributions will be rolling in, in the form of voluntary gifts and receipts from various forms of entertainment. The committee hopes to surpass Georgia's showing of a year ago, which was by no means bad.

All the 1918 gags about how a soldier hates to get up in the morning are being revived—per haps with more humor than truth. I've never served my country in uniform but I've tried to sleep on several types of army cots and was always glad to see the first touch of rosy dawn, so I could get up and rest.

Song About Flu

Seems almost everybody I know has flu—or somebody in the family has it or is just getting over it. And I'm knocking wood.

Flu is no joke. Nor hardly the subject for a poem. But Revah Summersgill did write one for House Beautiful and I'm lifting it from Dr. Wightman F. Melton's column in the Griffin News. It is a parody on Walter Scott's "Lay of the Last Minstrel"—and here it is:

THE LAY OF THE LAST FLU VICTIM
Breathes there someone who's nursed them all,
Husband and children, then had to fall
A victim to the flu herself—
Who has not moaned while on the shelf,
"How wretched here to have to lie,
Sick enough to want to die,
And have no bath, no bed
smoothed out,
No tea to put my chills to rout,
No word of sympathy, no comb!
What do they mean by 'Home
Sweet Home'?
And what of all the backs I rubbed?
The heads I soothed, the sheets
I rubbed?
Everyone is listless, resting,
While I lie here cross, protesting,
And ache from toe to blistered tongue,
Unwashed, unstraightened and unstrung!"

No Soul for Nature

Editor Jack Hilton, of the Banks County Journal, reveals singular interest in wildlife:

"The belled buzzard is old worn out news. In fact many have been belled but the strings soon rot off. We have in this section now the straight-legged buzzard. One of his legs hangs down. People for miles around have seen this straight-legged buzzard, so they say. One man suggested Monday that we watch every buzzard that passed over and we would soon see the buzzard with one leg hanging down. We informed the gentleman, very kindly, that we had something more important to work on than watching buzzards to see whether their legs were straight or crooked."

There may be such a thing as taking too much thought for the future. For instance, that Missouri man who stole 24 electric fans in midwinter.

At least one columnist is popular enough in his home territory to be elected to office. It almost makes me wish I'd run for coroner, except I hate to get up at night and go out in the cold.

Byron Anglin is the man I'm thinking of. He conducts "The First Column" in the Stewart-Webster Journal, of Lumpkin, Ga.

F. D. R. WILL WEAR IT.—Mrs. Nellie Mann is pictured holding the handsome broadcloth shirt which she made for President Roosevelt to wear to his third-term inauguration Monday. The shirt was sent to the Chief Executive last night. It was patterned from a shirt sent the Atlantan by Mrs. Roosevelt. Mrs. Mann has sent the President shirts for his other two inaugurations. (Story on Page 1.)

It is a kind of prose verse discussing affairs of the day. Just now he is writing it from the capitol, where he represents Stewart county as representative.

If one feels impelled to refer to the 72 prisoners Governor Rivers pardoned out of jail as his political swan song would it be tactful to wish them "many happy returns?"

U. S.-Canadian Defense Board To Meet Monday

WASHINGTON, Jan. 16.—(AP)—A meeting of the United States-Canada Joint Defense Board at Montreal next Monday was announced today by the War Department.

Undersecretary Robert P. Patterson said the meeting would be a continuation of conferences held by the group since its organization several months ago.

Representing the Army at the Montreal meeting will be Major General Stanley Embick, Lieutenant Colonel Clayton L. Bissell and Major Charles L. Gailey Jr.

Good Morning

By Dr. Louie D. Newton.

The Gideons. I have heard about the Gideons all my life. The first Gideons I knew were the valiant 300 men who lapped up water in their hands as they marched across the stream, keeping their eyes toward the enemy. (Seventh chapter of Judges.) The next Gideons I discovered were the men who had put a Bible in the first hotel room I ever occupied.

This latter group of Gideons will be in Atlanta next Sunday for their annual convention, and at 3 o'clock Sunday afternoon, in the municipal auditorium, they will dedicate 20,000 Bibles which are to be placed in the public schools of Georgia. Twenty tons of Bibles. They describe the event as the "largest number of Bibles ever dedicated to any one purpose at any given time." That will be quite an occasion—an occasion of great significance, I should say.

Prominent businessmen from every section of the United States will come to Atlanta for this convention of the Gideons, more officially known as the Christian Commercial Men's Association of America. Mr. La Tourette, of Tooele, is the president of this international organization. R. K. Price is president of the Gideons in Georgia, and W. L. Hardin Jr., is secretary.

The Gideons date their organization from the meeting of three traveling men at Janesville, Wis., July 1, 1899, where, after bowing in prayer for Divine guidance in a matter they had been discussing since the autumn of 1898, they arose, and W. J. Knight said to John H. Nicholson and Samuel E. Hill, "We will be called the Gideons."

These three traveling men, concerned for the spiritual well-being of the thousands of traveling men who have to be away from home for the most of the time, resolved to place a Bible in every hotel room as rapidly as funds would permit. The first Bibles were placed in the Superior hotel, Iron Mountain, Mont., in November, 1908. More than 1,500,000 have now been placed in hotels, hospitals, penitentiaries, and other public institutions. After having presented Bibles to the staterooms of a great steamship line, the president of that company sent the organization word "that his line would carry their shipments of Bibles to any part of the world without charge. One dollar provides a Gideon Bible and delivers it to any part of the world."

In the 1937 international convention, the Gideons decided to offer Bibles to the public schools, placing a copy on the desk of every teacher. The offer has been welcomed in most of the states, and the 20,000 Bibles to be dedicated in Atlanta next Sunday afternoon will soon be delivered to that many teachers in Georgia schools. Fifteen thousand Bibles were dedicated last July in the Hollywood Bowl for the schools of California, and 10,000 Bibles were presented to the schools in Oklahoma a few weeks ago.

Work or Drill Edict Issued Plane Workers

Men Face Draft If They Strike, Officer Says.

By The Associated Press.
A peacetime version of President Wilson's World War "work or fight" edict was issued yesterday to workers threatening a walkout at a California aircraft manufacturing plant.

Lieutenant Commander Maurice Sparling, naval reserve officer attached to California draft headquarters, ruled that, in event of a strike at the Ryan Aeronautical Company's San Diego plant, workers eligible for selective service must be reclassified.

In effect, this said to workers otherwise liable for training but placed in deferred status because of the essential nature of their jobs: "Continue work or face the possibility of being drafted."

The CIO United Automobile Workers' Union is engaged in a controversy with the company over minimum pay rates and has authorized a strike, if negotiations fail.

After two days of idleness, four plants of the Eaton Manufacturing Company—in Detroit, Battle Creek and Marshall, Mich., and Cleveland, Ohio—reopened.

In New York, the American Merchant Marine Institute, ship operators' organization, refused a demand by the National Maritime Union (CIO) for a 25 per cent wage increase for 30,000 seamen, but offered a $2.50-a-month raise in addition to continuance of a temporary $10 raise granted last June. The conference was to resume today.

Smithies Seek First Victory In Big 7 Loop

Canton-Monroe Game Is Canceled; Purples Play Saturday.

By CHARLIE ROBERTS.
The motto of the Tech High basketball team this year seems to be that oldie, "If at first you don't succeed, try, try again."

The Smithies have not broken into the Big Seven League win column yet, but tonight they will make their third try when they engage Jordan High from Columbus at the Grady court. The Commercial High and Smithie B teams will square off in a preliminary joust to get under way at 7:30.

CANTON UNBEATEN.
Canton, the only unbeaten quintet in the loop, was to be host to a strong Monroe Aggie five that was given an unexpected thumping by Commercial Tuesday night, but the game has been cancelled because of flu. Boys' High, playing great ball and was taking a 27-24 defeat from the Ags in their opener, is to clash with Columbus High on the latter's court Saturday night. Commercial drew a bye.

Coach Swede Phillips is sorely disappointed over the way the Smithies have played in their early games and has been working them four hours a day for the past couple of days trying to get them to break faster. As yet the Gold wearers have been sluggish, showed no inclination to hustle or break for the basket. Their chief trouble seems to be in their utter lack of anyone who can step out there and put the ball through the hoop with any regularity.

JORDAN UPSET.
Jordan has beaten Commercial and Monroe, and was tied with Canton for the league leadership until Dwight Keith's Purple Hurricane all but blew them off their own court Tuesday night. Boys' High triumphed by a 14-point margin. Even so the Columbus entry will be heavily favored against the Smithies tonight.

All in The Game

BY JACK TROY

Welcomes Change There were no hard feelings on Jim Bagby's part when the Boston Red Sox traded him to Cleveland, where his daddy, Old Sarge, had great success as a pitcher.

Just before Christmas, Young Jim wrote Red Sox manager Joe Cronin, thanking him for past favors, apologized for some uncomplimentary remarks a couple of years ago and wished the Bostons a lot of luck.

Here's Bagby's letter:

"Dear Joe:

"Just a few lines to thank you for all you have done for me in the three years I have been with the Red Sox. I am sorry I did not help your ball club as much as you expected, but feel sure you will believe that I tried my best. I have enjoyed working for the Red Sox and the Boston fans, and I believe that under the skin Ted (Williams) feels the same way.

"Joe, you remember in 1939 when you sent me to Little Rock, I acted in a way not complimentary to you or the ball club, but I found out afterwards that you kept me longer than the ball club wanted to keep me. There were plenty of times you could have made things tough for me, but you always treated me fair and square.

"Tell Tom Yawkey I don't believe a ball player could work under a better owner than he is. He always treated you like one of the boys. I won't write him, but you can give him that message.

"Sorry I am leaving the ball club, in a way, and then in another I am not. One reason I don't like leaving is my associations with you and the ball players. My reason for wanting to go is that I don't believe a fast-ball pitcher ever will have real success in Fenway park. You see even Feller has some trouble in that park. I believe the deal concerning Dobson and myself will help both of us. He has a good curve ball and that is the kind of fellow who will win in Fenway. Good examples of that are Lefty Grove and Earl Johnson.

"Grove will pitch until he passes away.

"I will like it at Cleveland because, even though the right-field fence is short, I have more trouble against right-handed batters. So I believe both clubs benefited from the deal. Just thought I would write you, and this is all I could find to write about.

"Wishing you the best of luck through 1941.

"Your Ex-Red Sox friend,

"JIM BAGBY."

Little Sarge, recently interviewed as to the Indians' chances for 1941, said he didn't see how they could miss winning the American League pennant.

Great Party The best football party (bar none) staged annually in these United States will be pitched, or slung, today and tonight by the Atlanta Touchdown Club.

Some of the nation's outstanding coaching talent—namely Sleepy Jim Crowley and Frank Leahy—will be heard as principal speakers at the dinner. Also on the program is Allyn McKen, Mississippi State coach. McKen has been outstanding in his two years at Starkville.

Leading sports writers of the south will augment the gathering of fans, coaches and other sports celebrities. There will be, in all, a total of 500. The list has been restricted, and strictly, to half a grand of folks.

"But it won't be half a grand party. A grand party and a half will be more like it.

There will be a big luncheon at noon at the Athletic Club, a cocktail party at the Variety Club from 4:30 until it ends, and the dinner at the Ansley starting promptly at 7.

All the bowl game pictures, except the Rose, will be shown on an enlarged screen and in full. And there will be another special film showing the scoring plays of all bowl games.

Everett Strupper and the various committees have done a magnificent job of planning for the second annual "Bowl" party, which is even bigger and better than the first.

In Short Communication from Maurice Bloch, Selma, Ala., owner of the ball club and past president of the Auburn Alumni Association:

"Curves are bad for rookie hitters, fast drivers

Jim Crowley Due To Make Feature Talk

Leahy, McKen Here; Will Narrate for Bowl Pictures.

By THAD HOLT.

Every show has to have a main attraction, but the Atlanta Touchdown Club's second annual party tonight at the Ansley has so many headliners, even a Barker in the class of W. C. Fields would yell himself hoarse before he got through this star-studded lineup.

It has to be good. Same people don't go throwing five dollar bills around just to make an impression.

Sleepy Jim Crowley, whose Fordham Rams play wide-awake football, even if they did lose a heartbreaker to John Kimbrough & Company in the Cotton Bowl New Year's, will be the principal speaker.

GOOD ON FEET.

Mr. Crowley, one of Notre Dame's immortal Four Horsemen, is a good man on his feet. He is much in demand for this sort of thing and undoubtedly during tonight's remarks will get around to the Cotton Bowl struggle.

If Coach Frank Leahy, leader of Boston College's mighty eleven, puts in an appearance and makes his scheduled talk tonight, Touchdowners immediately will nominate him "most fearless man of the year."

The genial coach of the Eagles has just gone through a season when his Eagles moved down three Southeastern Conference giants in as many starts. His team's achievement in scoring 79 points against Tulane, Auburn and Tennessee establishes him as the Deep South's No. 1 gridiron enemy.

HOT FOOT, MAYBE!

Mr. Leahy will probably be smiling and speaking softly and looking innocent tonight, as if his Eagles just went out there and played like dems against Dixie, without his consent or his influence. But by now folks down here should be on to General Frank. If he gets a hot foot or a Mickey Finn tonight he will just be getting his just deserts. It will be interesting to hear the Boston College coach's remarks about the Sugar Bowl affair.

Allyn McKen, whose Mississippi State Maroons were the state's surprise team of the campaign, winding up with a glorious victory in the Orange Bowl, will be on hand and possibly will comment on Orange Bowl movies.

ALL SCORING PLAYS.
Moving pictures of all the bowl games, presenting every scoring play in every bowl, will be shown. Everett Strupper, president emeritus, announced against Dixie, attendance at tonight's mammoth jamboree would be restricted to 500 persons.

Governor Eugene Talmadge will welcome the distinguished coaches and writers to Atlanta.

There will be a luncheon at noon at the Athletic Club, a cocktail party at 4:30 and the dinner is slated for 7 o'clock at the Ansley.

Georgia Fencers Face Vandy Today

Vanderbilt's 1941 fencing team, coached by Coach H. C. Sanborn as "the most evenly developed team I ever coached" will open seven-match schedule today with the University of Georgia at Athens.

The Commodore foils men are making a joint trip to Georgia with Coach Buford's basketballers, filling a Saturday date with Georgia Tech in Atlanta after Friday's engagement with the University of Georgia. This year's schedule, which lists a match with the University of North Carolina as well as six Southeastern conference fustles, is considered to be the best in recent years, and includes two road trips for the Sanbornmen.

Old Al Simmons Signs For 18th Year in Majors

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 16.—(P)—Veteran Al Simmons and Rookie Fred Chapman have signed to play with the Athletics again in 1941, Manager Connie Mack announced yesterday.

Simmons, an outfielder, will be starting his 18th year in major league baseball. He was used last year principally as a pinch hitter and coach. Chapman will make another bid to become regular shortstop.

Evening College Wins 10th in 11 Contests

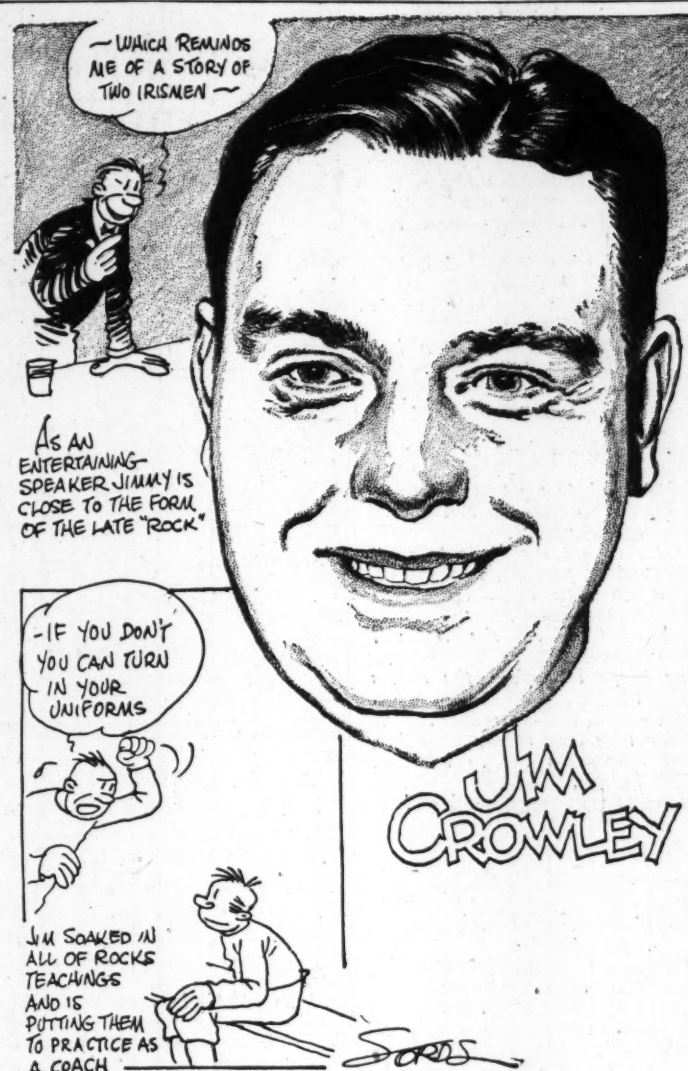

The Georgia Evening College won its 10th game in 11 starts last night, defeating Fungi-Sol, 47 to 34, at the Y. W. C. A. court.

Jack Teagle connected for 16 points to pace the winners and Culbertson scored 20 for Fungi-Sol.

Chapman Beaten In Miami Meet

MIAMI, Fla., Jan. 16.—(P)—Dick Chapman, the national amateur golf champion, bowed out today in the semi-final round of the annual Miami Biltmore tournament.

He was beaten, 6 and 5, by George Dawson, of Chicago. Dawson's opponent in again in the hole finals tomorrow will be Jim Ferrier, of Australia. 3-and-2 victor over Earl Christiansen, of Miami.

Armstrong Favored Over Zivic Tonight

Heroic Henry Probably Will Retire Whether He Regains Crown or Not.

By SID FEDER.

NEW YORK, Jan. 16.—(P)—For probably the last time in his career, the miracle man of boxing, Henry Armstrong, tries to do it again tonight.

Deadly intent on regaining his world welterweight championship—because he wants to "quit at the top"—the little hammer tangles with Fritz Zivic for 15 rounds or less in Madison Square Garden, and the chances are the biggest crowd of the indoor season, possibly more than 18,000, will be on hand to wish him hail and farewell.

Although most of the evidence points to a repeat victory for Fritz, not even the betting men are willing to give up on "Li'l Perpetual Motion." The only warrior to hold three championships simultaneously, he has done, more than once before, what everyone thought was impossible.

Despite his defeat last October at the hands of the youngest of the five flying Zivics—a defeat in which he toppled on his face, a beaten batter, as the final gong sounded—Henrietta the Hammer remained a surprise 5-to-8 favorite in the waning today. The experts, however, generally picked Zivic, largely because the Pittsburgher has been particularly impressive in his training while Henry has been somewhat less than terrific.

Just what Henry is going to do from here on in, not even he is quite certain, although 1941 definitely will be his last year in action. If he wins, the chances are he'll leave the ring for keeps and turn to his poetry writing and music. He has nothing to worry about financially. If he loses, by a close margin, he'll be back later for another crack. If he is badly beaten, it is doubtful if he'll try again.

Kayak II Second To Filly Augury

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 16.—(P)—Kayak II, big black Argentine thoroughbred of the C. S. Howard stable, returned to the turf today after an enforced layoff since last September and finished second to Augury, speed-burning filly from the N. S. McCarthy barns.

Although beaten by a length and one-half in the six-furlong dash, Kayak looked good and evidently will be brought up to the $100,000 handicap at a mile and one-quarter March 1 in the best of condition. The winner's time was 1:11.1.

George Toporcer Signed By Eastern League Club

ALBANY, N. Y., Jan. 16.—(P)—George (Specs) Toporcer today signed to manage the Albany Eastern League Baseball Club again this year.

Before coming here last year, Toporcer managed teams at Rochester, Hazleton, Rocky Mount and Little Rock.

Hot Spur Leads the Way In Runs at Waynesboro

Looks Best on Semi-Final Day of Open All-Age Stake in Rough Weather.

By JOHNNY BRADBERRY.

WAYNESBORO, Ga., Jan. 16.—Another disagreeable day greeted spectators who braved misty, cloudy weather to watch the semi-final day of the $1,000 Open All-Age Stake in the 41st annual meeting of the Georgia Field Trials Association here.

Eight more of the record 30 braces were put down today and the final seven will be run tomorrow. Winners of the featured stake will be announced tomorrow night.

The open Derby stake, with 22 entries, will be run off Saturday.

The weather for the semi-final day's running in the open all-age was a bit rough for the gallery, but, nevertheless, nearly everybody who has been riding the braces was still at it.

MORE BIRDS.

Birds were more plentiful than at any other time during the trials. More coverts were found today than yesterday's previous record of 19 beives. Hot Spur, owned by E. B. Boone and handled by George Crangle, found two coverts and handled them well. It was the opinion in the lobby he turned in the day's best performance.

It is possible a second series to determine the winners will have to be run; and, if it is, the trials will not be over Saturday.

The luck of the brace drawing caused an interesting sidelight on tomorrow's final seven braces. Handler Bob Bevan will race dogs in the first six braces, which means he will be handling a dog for six straight hours.

Hall Easily Wins In Billiards Tilt

CHICAGO, Jan. 16.—(P)—Allen Hall, of Chicago, a leading contender for the world's three cushion billiard crown, easily scored his second straight victory in the $20,000 tournament today. Another veteran, Art Thurnblad, of Kenosha, Wis., had to come from behind to keep his unbeaten record intact.

In the other afternoon game, Irving Crane, of Rochester, N. Y., collected his first triumph in three starts. He defeated John Fitzpatrick, of Los Angeles, previously unbeaten, 50 to 49, in 57 innings.

Sully Laseter did all he could for the Nehi cause, however, as he basketed 32 points for the visitors. Allison, with 19 points, shaded teammate Tucker, who had 18, to become high point maker for the Elks.

Decatur Elks Win From Columbus 5

The Decatur Elks quintet, recent winners over the strong Atlanta Police five, added another great performance to their record last night when they took the measure of the Nehi Reds, of Columbus, one of the toughest teams in the state, 70 to 61, in the Decatur gym.

Sully Laseter did all he could for the Nehi cause, however, as he basketed 32 points for the visitors. Allison, with 19 points, shaded teammate Tucker, who had 18, to become high point maker for the Elks.

N. Fulton Beats Richardson Twice

North Fulton defeated Richardson High in both games of a double-header last night at the North Fulton court. The Bulldogs defeated the Rams, 27-22, while the North Fulton girls won a preliminary, 44-11.

Whitlow scored 10 points to lead the Bulldogs and Rooks had the same total for Richardson. Dorman poured in 20 points for the Buckhead girls.

Flu Scare Closes Georgia-Vandy Cage Game to Public Tonight

ATHENS, Ga., Jan. 16.—(P)—University of Georgia authorities announced this afternoon that tomorrow night's basketball game between the University of Georgia and Vanderbilt would be closed to the general public in an effort to curb a flu epidemic that has been prevalent here all this week.

Authorities said the gates to Woodruff Hall court would be locked and only the players, coaches, managers, timers, scorers and sports writers would be allowed in the hall.

There has been no indication, however, that classes will be suspended at any time in the near future.

All social functions planned by sororities and fraternities for the weekend have been ordered postponed by school authorities.

Cravey Cleans Wildlife House; Elliott Urges Co-operation

AS ONE PRESIDENT TO ANOTHER—"Congratulations," says retiring N. G. I. C. president, O. L. Amsler (right front) to E. P. McIlwain, West Fulton principal, who was elected to succeed him at the annual conference banquet last night. Those looking on from behind are other newly elected officers. Left to right are Joe Martin, Decatur, member of the executive committee; C. C. Wills, Fulton High, secretary; F. H. DuBose, LaGrange, vice president, and R. L. Bowen, Russell High, member of the executive committee. Amsler was principal of Decatur High until Uncle Sam's Army called him into service some months ago.

Bondurant Leads in Voting For N. G. I. C. All-Star Eleven

Mote Next in Poll; McIlwain Is Named President of Conference.

By CHARLIE ROBERTS.

E. P. McIlwain, principal of West Fulton High school, was elected president of the North Georgia Interscholastic Conference last night at the annual banquet at a downtown tearoom. He succeeds O. L. Amsler, Decatur High principal, who was recently called into the Army.

F. H. DuBose, LaGrange High athletic director, was chosen vice president. C. C. Wills, Fulton High coach, is the new secretary, and R. L. Bowen, Russell coach, and Joe Martin, Decatur High coach, were chosen members of the executive committee.

Retiring officers besides Amsler include Cy Maddox, Russell, vice president; C. W. O'Rear, North Fulton, secretary, and C. J. Cheves, Gainesville, executive committee member.

HAPEVILLE NEW MEMBERS. Hapeville High school was admitted to the N. G. I. C. and Hogsheadville High's bid to enter the organization was rejected because it does not participate in several major sports.

The basketball tournament, which has been held in the Fulton High gym for the past several years, will be played on the new Decatur court the weekend of

General Shoe, Lithonia Play On Celtic Card

Sewell Red Elephants Will Play All-Stars Thursday Night.

Everything is in readiness for the biggest basketball show ever staged in Atlanta.

Officials in charge of the Celtic-Cracker program at the City auditorium Thursday night announced yesterday that all details had been worked out, including the completion of an attractive preliminary card.

General Shoe, one of the classiest teams in the city leagues, will play Lithonia in the semifinals. In a recent game, Lithonia, led by irrepressible Little Eddie Tucker, won a hairline decision on its home court and General Shoe is eager to square accounts.

A girls' game which is attracting unusual interest is the struggle which will pair off Sewell's Red Elephants, one of Dixie's foremost women's teams, against a picked aggregation of Atlanta stars. The Stars are a formidable lot and may hand the Sewell lassies their first loss of the season.

At 7:15 o'clock, there will be a 15-minute tussle involving two midwest teams (12 years and under) from the Atlanta Basketball Federation.

The girls' game is scheduled to begin at 8:30, followed by the General Shoe-Lithonia battle at 8:30. The main attraction between the most famous of all teams, the Celtics, and the dangerous Crackers, will start at 9:30.

There are 4,000 seats available. Tickets are on sale at Adam Hat store at 64 Peachtree and at Reeder & McCaughey Sporting Goods, located at 66 Broad.

Ranger Force Is Doomed in Big Shakeup

New Director Swamped by Patient Army of Job-Seekers.

By JOHN MARTIN.

Zach D. Cravey, new director of the State Department of Natural Resources, yesterday completed his first move to restore game and fish in Georgia when he gave the heave-ho to the division of wildlife's porter.

Dismissal of Sidney Lockett, colored handyman and sideline cuisinier of distinction, climaxed the shuffle which claimed the entire office personnel of the department on Cravey's first day on the firing-and-hiring line.

RANGERS NEXT.

Outdoor observers saw this quick and thorough action as a forerunner to a guillotining of the uniformed wildlife ranger staff—this to come as quickly as the newly-appointed director can find an opening to swing through a surging flood of jobseekers.

Several rangers already had been given the back gate yesterday afternoon and only those who can make a large and heavy truck around Room 412 at the State

Dan Rainey, former district chief of the mountain district of the Wildlife Division, yesterday was named overseer for the estate of the Le Tourneau Company in North Georgia.

Rainey this week resigned his wildlife office and will be in charge of a large fish and game management program being launched by the north Georgia company.

Capitol are expected to survive. Some of the staff appeared in the building in civilian clothes and announced that they had resigned.

A mob that would rival the attendance at an old-fashioned pond-draining and fish-gigging party in south Georgia pushed against the wildlife gate all day Wednesday and yesterday. Cravey was receiving personal applications as fast as he could hang up the phone and take it down again.

ELITE STATEMENT.

While this was going on, Charlie Elliott, former acting director, urged sportsmen and landowners to continue to co-operate with all agencies working toward development of Georgia's natural resources.

Elliott's statement was as follows:

"I should like to express my very deep appreciation to those who have been active in the promotion and development of Georgia's wildlife and other resources. The editors of the state, in their daily and weekly columns, have awakened a new recognition of the value of Georgia's natural wealth, so that most Georgians now have an intense interest in both the conservation and development of their resources. To the sportsmen of the state for their attitude on strict game law enforcement, and to the landowners for their co-operation in game restoration and protection, goes credit for the success of the uniformed wildlife rangers.

"The natural resources are the basis of all the wealth in this or in any other state. They are far more important to the welfare of the people than personalities or petty politics of any other type of politics.

"I consider that any small part I might have had in a program which included the preservation of our natural wealth was a distinct honor to me. In the future, we can never realize the full benefit from our wildlife, forests, minerals and other important natural assets."

PLAYS FOR KEEPS—When Jimmy Hines plays golf, he plays for keeps. Yesterday in the San Francisco Match Play tournament qualifying, he shot a 68, tied for medal honors. A few minutes later, he fainted when a doctor lanced a boil on his hand which had made him suffer with every stroke.

Suffering Hines Scores 68, Faints in Doctor's Office

Player Ties Penna for Frisco Medal, Keels Over When Hands Lanced.

By RUSS NEWLAND.

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., Jan. 16.—(P)—Overlooked in the crush of first-round sub-par firing, Tony Penna, of Dayton, Ohio, and Jimmy Hines, of Great Neck L. I., charged down the home stretch today to end up in a tie for medal honors in the 36-hole qualifying trials of the $5,000 San Francisco match play open golf tournament.

Their scores of 140, four under par for the two rounds, resulted from sparkling 68s today, lowest scores of the second half of the qualifying competition.

Hines' feat won the plaudits of the gallery. He struggled through his round nursing infected hands so sore he could barely grip his clubs. He has been under a doctor's care since the start of the tournament because of a severe case of boils.

After completing his round, Hines had those on his hands lanced. The pain was so severe he fainted in the doctor's office, but later asserted, "I'll continue to play in the tournament as long as I can hold a club in my hands."

Frank Leahy hasn't been back home (Boston) since the Sugar Bowl game because he had to meet executives of a large manufacturing company in Miami, Fla. Coach Leahy travels the south for the company in the summer. He had concluded his business in Miami and was anxious to get home to be with his family; but, just to show how accommodating the Boston College coach is, he readily agreed to attend today's big function here.

Suggs Shoots 39 After Long Trip

PUNTA GORDA, Fla., Jan. 16.—(P)—Louise Suggs, of Lithia Springs, Ga., 17-year-old Georgia state champion, moved today into the ranks of the leading contenders in the annual Punta Gorda Women's tournament opening tomorrow.

Miss Suggs climaxed a 500-mile motor trip from Atlanta with a nine-hole practice score of 39 on her first tour of the course.

Elizabeth Hicks, of Long Beach, Cal., remained the favorite, however, because of her string of victories in Florida last season and her sparkling practice play here this week. On one nine-hole stint she carded a 35, one under men's par. Jane Cothran, of Greenville, S. C., Jean Bauer, of Providence, R. I., and several other entrants practiced briefly during the day.

Dr. Mann Calls For Wheeler To Visit Nazis

That Would Be Roosevelt's Best Answer, Author Declares.

The best answer President Roosevelt could give to Senator Burton K. Wheeler and other apostles of isolation, appeasement and negotiated peace would be to have them visit Hitler's Germany and learn first hand what the Nazis have in mind for a conquered world, Thomas Mann, the great German author now in self-imposed exile in this country, said here last night.

They would soon learn that there can be no barriers erected behind which a nation would be safe from German malevolence, no way of maintaining honorable peace in a world ruled by them, the distinguished winner of the Nobel prize for literature in 1929 declared.

Dr. Mann, who with his wife was in Atlanta to speak at Emory last night under the auspices of the Emory Lecture Association, was a guest of the Robert Hechts, at their home on Peachtree Battle avenue. The Hechts and the Manns met last summer at the mountain lodge of the opera star, Lotte Lehmann, in California.

If England holds out long enough, there is a strong possibility that Germany will collapse internally, Dr. Mann said.

"The German people rejoice at German victories," he pointed out, "but not because of the victory. They rejoice because each time they hope that now there will be peace and that the lust for power of their leader will be satiated. And each time they are sent on to other contests they grow less happy with their lot, because they know that the dreams of world conquest will never be realized."

"If Germany conquers England, nothing will be settled, and the German people know it. There may be a breathing spell, an armistice, for 10 years or so. And then the bath of blood will begin again. If England conquers there is hope for lasting peace, for it is hoped that the democracies have learned a lesson since the last war, and in writing the terms of a new peace will not make the mistakes of Versailles all over again."

committee invitations had not gone out yet, but a list of future witnesses was expected to be ready some time tomorrow.

Senator Burton K. Wheeler, Democrat, Montana, leader of the noninterventionist bloc and target of a presidential attack for his description of the administration's foreign policy as one to "plow under every fourth American boy," said after hearing Stimson's statement:

"Every informed person in Washington knows that high officials in the War Department are today working on the assumption that we will probably be in the war by April 1."

The Bloom-Fish battle highlighted other developments touching on the controversial measure.

Retiring Ambassador to Britain Joseph P. Kennedy announced, after a long conference with President Roosevelt, that he would speak his mind Saturday night in a radio address that would emphasize "staying out of war." Kennedy, who had accepted Fish's invitation to testify next week along with Wendell L. Willkie, also conferred for 45 minutes with Secretary of State Cordell Hull. He said this meeting had no bearing on his radio speech in which "for once I am going to say what I have on my mind."

Former Republican President Herbert Hoover, under whom Stimson served as secretary of state, asked in a letter to Bloom that the foreign affairs committee reassure an "apprehensive and confused" public by defining immediately the specific powers the bill would confer on Mr. Roosevelt.

Senator Robert A. Taft, Republican, Ohio, said the numerous letters sent to him from throughout the country reveal a 40-to-1 ratio against the lend-lease bill. He said the prevailing sentiment was for all possible aid to England consistent with the United States remaining at peace, but that "my correspondents feel, as I do, that the passage of this legislation means genuine war for the United States."

Representative William G. Stratton, Republican, Illinois, 26-year-old "baby" of congress, said on the house floor that any member of congress voting for the bill in its present form "would, in my judgment, be violating his oath of office." He said that "the President, under the guise of aid to England, is making a deliberate attempt to grab absolute power."

Representative George H. Bender, Republican, Ohio, introduced a concurrent resolution calling on the secretary of state to ask belligerents to state their war aims.

Representative George Holden Tinkham, Republican, Massachusetts, who tiffed repeatedly with Hull yesterday when the latter appeared before the committee, charged in a house speech that

Mr. Roosevelt and Hull have "plotted against the peace and safety of the United States by knowingly and designedly committing the United States in advance to active participation in the present wars of Europe and Asia."

"I charge," Tinkham added, "that President Roosevelt and Secretary of State Hull have betrayed the American people and have been disloyal and traitorous to the United States, its integrity, its constitution, its institutions, its traditions and its safety."

Representative John M. Costello, Democrat, California, introduced a substitute aid-to-Britain bill which he said would specifically prohibit the President from "giving away the entire navy."

He said it also would extend the President's authority only until March 1, 1942; put a $5,000,000 ceiling on the program; retain Johnson and neutrality act restrictions imposed on the aid program and prohibit transfer of any naval vessels, airplanes and munitions now in use.

Fish did most of the questioning while Stimson was on the stand, and the two tilted frequently.

In reply to a question by Fish, Stimson said that "on the knowledge I have of the situation, I would object" to the insertion in the pending bill of any provision to prohibit transfer of any part of the United States Navy to Britain.

"I can well conceive," he said, "that a portion of the Navy might be transferred on conditions very advantageous to us."

Fish demanded to know whether the bill would permit the President to "give away any part of our Navy."

"Well," Stimson replied, "it permits him to transfer it on such considerations as he thinks will be in the interest of our defense."

"If he deems the considerations satisfactory, he would have the power, isn't that correct?" Fish asked.

"I'd hardly say he had the power," was the reply.

"But he would have the power?" Fish persisted.

"He would have the power to-day to send the Navy into the heart of the war," Stimson said.

"Yes," Fish interrupted, "but he couldn't get away with it without impeachment."

"He isn't going to."

"You can make just as violent interpretations of the constitution as those you are trying to extort from this bill," Stimson replied.

"But we all know he isn't going to do it."

"If Great Britain is our first line of defense," Fish asked, "do you favor going into the war?"

"I am in favor of assisting Great Britain to maintain her fleet," Stimson replied.

Shortly afterwards, Bloom and Fish engaged in their verbal encounter.

Bloom objected to the wording of Fish's telegraphic invitations to Kennedy, Willkie, and others to testify on the "President's dictator bill."

"If you invited people to testify on the President's dictator bill," Bloom said, "you were wrong because there isn't any such bill."

"I'm right," Fish countered, "it is a dictator bill."

U. S. Is Taking New Steps To Protect Citizens

Air Raid Shelters Being Built; Instructions Compiled.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 16.—(AP)—New steps to safeguard the population of American cities from air raids were announced today while Secretary of War Stimson was telling a house committee there would be "very great danger" of aerial invasion but for the British fleet.

Under Secretary Robert P. Patterson said the War Department and Defense Commission were preparing informative pamphlets on methods of civil defense. Already experimental air raid shelters, some of them similar to those under fire in London, have been built by the army engineers and are to be tested by actual bombing and fixed explosive charges, Patterson said.

An official mission sails tomorrow to study Britain's home defenses. It will be headed by Dr. Thomas Parran, surgeon general of the Public Health Service.

Today's civilian protection moves capped a series of other defense developments, including: Mobilization of some 8,000 troops of the Fortieth National Guard Division will be postponed from February 10 to March 3. Officials said adverse weather had delayed construction of a new camp at San Luis Obispo, Cal.

2,767 Votes Cast For Mrs. Donehoo

Official consolidation of the ballots cast in the special election Wednesday gave Mrs. Paul Donehoo, victorious candidate, a total of 2,767, election officials announced yesterday.

Her nearest rival, Carlton Binns, received 1,397. Others in the largest field of candidates ever to seek a public office in Fulton county trailed far behind and only three, J. Gordon Hardy, Harry G. Poole and Frank Smith, got more than 500 each.

Officials said that Mrs. Donehoo will be sworn in to succeed her late husband as soon as her commission is prepared and delivered by Governor Talmadge.

The official total vote cast in the race was 9,628.

THE ATLANTA CONSTITUTION
Edited by SALLY SAVER

ATLANTA, GA., FRIDAY JANUARY 17, 1941.

Ideas From a Cook's Notebook

Wash tiny carrots, do not peel them, but cut off the stem and root ends. Melt 3 tablespoons butter or margarine in a saucepan, add about 18 tiny whole carrots, 1 tablespoon minced parsley, 1-4 cup boiling water, 2 teaspoons sugar and 1-2 teaspoon salt. Cover the saucepan and cook for 15 minutes. By that time the carrots should be tender and most of the liquid absorbed. Serve "as is."

Macaroni and Ham Casserole

Cook until tender 1 tablespoon chopped onion, 2 tablespoons chopped green pepper in 2 tablespoons butter. Add, mixing well, 2 tablespoons chili sauce, 1 cup diced (cooked) ham, 1 medium-sized can cooked macaroni or approximately two cups of cooked, well-seasoned macaroni. Pour into shallow casserole and top with 1-4 cup fresh bread crumbs. Bake in a moderate oven (375 F.) 15 to 20 minutes. Serves 4.

One historian writes that Martha Washington's version of apple pie was made in a deep dish lined with rich pastry, the edge of which was crimped with the tines of a fork. Two egg yolks, one-half cup sugar and four grated tart apples were mixed together. One tablespoon melted butter, a pinch of salt and a dash of nutmeg were added. This filling was baked in the pastry until the crust was delicately golden. Then a meringue of egg whites and sugar was spread on top and browned lightly in a slow oven.

Pickle and American Cheese

Grind cheese and sweet pickle together and spread on thin slices of buttered bread.

Roll Flank Steak. 1-4 cup melted shortening 2 cups soft bread crumbs 1 onion 1-2 teaspoon salt 1-8 teaspoon pepper 1-4 teaspoon poultry seasoning 1 flank steak

Mince the onion and mix all ingredients well, except the steak. Spread on the steak, roll up, fasten with skewers (or toothpicks) and string and place in covered baking utensil. Place in hot oven. If oven has heat control, preheat to 450 degrees F. Place meat on rack in middle position. Cook 10 minutes, then lower heat to medium and cook until tender. Remove cover during last half hour of cooking to allow meat to brown.

Curried Eggs in a Rice Ring

Hard cook 8 eggs. Heat 3 tablespoons butter and 1 tablespoon salad oil in a saucepan, add 1-2 cup thinly sliced onions and a crushed clove of garlic. Cook slowly for about 5 minutes or until the onion is lightly yellowed. Mix 1 tablespoon curry powder with 2 tablespoons flour, 1 teaspoon sugar, 1-2 teaspoon dry mustard and 1 teaspoon salt. Add this to the onions and mix well. Then stir in 3 cups chicken stock, consommé or hot water in which have been dissolved 3 bouillon cubes (if the cubes are used, omit the salt), 1 cup canned tomatoes and 1 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce. If possible add also 1-4 cup shredded unsweetened coconut. Cook this sauce slowly for 45 minutes. Peel the eggs and cut each one in quarters. Arrange the eggs in the center of a hot rice ring, pour the sauce over the eggs and around the rice and serve very hot with chutney pickle. For the rice ring, boil 1 cup rice in salted water until tender, drain, rinse with hot water, drain again and press into a buttered ring mold. Let stand in a pan of hot water for at least 10 minutes, then unmold into a hot platter.

Ginger Pear Salad

1 package lemon gelatin 1 cup boiling water 2-3 cup ginger ale 1 tablespoon lemon juice 1 tablespoon grated orange rind 1-8 teaspoon salt 1 cup diced pears 1-4 cup seeded grapes (optional) 2 tablespoons chopped candied ginger 1-4 cup broken nut meats. Dissolve gelatin in the water. Cool and add the ginger ale. Chill until partly thick, fold in the rest of the ingredients. Pour into a mold and chill until firm. Serve on lettuce.

Beef and Kidney Stew

Buy a medium sized beef kidney and 1 pound lean stewing beef from bottom round, chuck or flank. Soak the kidney 30 minutes in cold salted water to cover. Then drain, cut it lengthwise in half and then in small sections, separating it from the tough center membrane. Cut the meat into squares and roll the meat and the kidney in 3 tablespoons flour seasoned with salt and pepper. Melt 1-4 cup meat drippings, butter, salad oil or shortening in a saucepan, add the meat and stir until browned. Cover with 5 cups hot water, add 1-2 cup sliced onions, 1-4 cup sliced celery and 1-2 cup diced carrots. Add also 1-2 cup tomato juice. Cover and boil gently for 2 hours. Then add 6 small potatoes cut in quarters and continue boiling until the potatoes are tender. Remove the meat and vegetables to a hot serving dish, then thicken the gravy with 3 tablespoons flour mixed to a smooth paste with cold water. Let boil up, pour over the meat and vegetables and serve very hot. The potatoes may be omitted and dumplings cooked with the stew instead.

Fruit Whip With Boiled Custard

Submitted by Mrs. L. H. Sanders, Colbert, Ga. 4 cups cooked dried fruit. 2 eggs. 2 cups sugar. 2 tablespoons flour. 3 cups milk. Beat egg whites until stiff but not dry, and fold into them the cooked and sweetened dried fruit. Place egg yolks, flour, 1 cup of the sugar and the milk in a double boiler. Bring slowly to a boil and cook slowly, stirring, until of custard consistency. Serve warm or cold over the fruit mixture.

Save With Thrift Cuts Use Sour Cream

This is the season, if you'll allow me to mention, of sniffles, flu, doldrums and budget troubles. Fortunately for both the doldrums and the budget it's also the season of thrift. Today, Benjamin Franklin's birthday, opens Thrift Week, a most appropriate time to focus attention upon ways and means for making dimes go as far as possible.

Meat is one of the largest items in a food budget, because meat is perhaps the best liked and most satisfying of foods. Happily there is a middle ground between the tempting and popular tenderloins and rib roasts, and shabby scrimping in buying meats. There are the "thrift cuts" of meat. What are they?

A thrift cut is less expensive because it is less in demand than the steaks and chops that everyone knows about. Here are some examples of thrift cuts and suggestions for using them:

Lamb: Braised neck slices, served with corn pudding; lamb patties, with creamed potatoes; shoulder of lamb stuffed with rice or barley; lamb loaf with baked potatoes; lamb shanks with noodles; lamb stew with a raw vegetable salad; lamb hash with raw carrot strips.

Pork: Pork shoulder steaks with sautéed apple rings; country style backbones with sweet potatoes in jackets or with sauerkraut; rolled pork shoulder with prune-apple stuffing; pig hocks with red cabbage slaw; cushion-style pork shoulder with candied sweet potatoes.

Beef: Braised short ribs with potatoes and brown gravy; stuffed flank steak, bread stuffing; beef pie; beef stew, with vegetable or fruit salad; cross-cut beef shanks with baked onions.

Veal: Stuffed breast of veal, sausage stuffing; casserole of veal in tomato sauce; veal cutlets baked in sour cream; braised shoulder chops with steamed brown rice; veal stew with dumplings and cole slaw.

General Suggestions With Thrift Cuts of Meat

1. Prepare meats carefully. Cook them long enough and slowly enough to bring out the best flavor. For stews, pies and short-cakes cut meat in large cubes. For a richer flavor brown all meats in hot fat before adding sauces, stock or water in which meat is to simmer to a tender doneness.

2. Glamorize your servings of thrift meats: Use edible garnishes such as carrot balls or strips; celery curls, glazed apple or pineapple rings, broiled pineapple or orange slices, parsley or watercress, pickles or a tomato wedge. Serve hash or stews on toast points or between slices of hot cornbread, shortcake style, or in individual casseroles. A meat pie which will do honor to Ben Franklin, exponent of thrift, brighten the eyes of the family and pamper your food budget is the pie pictured below: Just for fun we've named it

Ben Franklin Pie

3 cups cold cooked lamb, diced 4 tablespoons flour 4 tablespoons butter or margarine 2 cups milk Parsley Salt and pepper Paprika Button mushrooms Thically sliced bacon Popovers

Make white sauce of butter or margarine, flour, and milk. Season with salt and pepper. Add lamb and mushrooms cut in slices. Serve very hot with popovers arranged on a large platter. Strip with small thick bacon slices, which have been slowly broiled or fried, sprinkle with paprika and top with parsley bouquet.

Sooner or later you will find yourself with sour cream in the refrigerator and when you do, instead of looking at it with regret for its souring, rejoice and try your hand at sour cream delicacies that have an epicurean reputation. Always, connoisseurs of food have sung praises of the subtle flavor that sour cream imparts, and following are practical suggestions for using sour cream:

In a cake or biscuit recipe, either sour milk or sour cream may be substituted. Allow one cup of sour milk or sweet, and add one-fourth teaspoon of baking soda as leavening in place of one teaspoon of baking powder. Add the remaining baking powder as called for. In using thick sour cream in a recipe calling for sweet milk and shortening, cut down the fat in the recipe by three tablespoons for each cup of sour cream used.

Sour cream used in roasting meat or in gravy gives a rich, though delicate flavor. Veal or beef liver may be baked in sour cream. Try adding sour cream to the gravy for roast veal or to lamb or veal casserole. Add to an equal portion of mayonnaise and whip together for a sour-cream dressing. For a sour-cream mayonnaise dressing, appropriate to almost any kind of salad, mix the following: 1-2 cup of mayonnaise, 1-2 cup of heavy sour cream, 1 teaspoon prepared mustard, 1 teaspoon finely minced olive meats, and 1 scant half-teaspoon of sugar. Stir well. If not too too sour, sour cream may be added to soups such as tomato or cabbage soup.

Wonderful golden-brown waffles may be made from sour cream, waffles that melt in your mouth.

Sour Cream Waffles

2 cups sifted flour 1-2 teaspoon baking soda 1-2 teaspoon salt 1 tablespoon sugar 2 eggs, separated 2 cups sour heavy cream Mix and sift dry ingredients. Combine well-beaten egg yolks and cream; add to flour mixture, beating until smooth. Fold in stiffly beaten egg whites. Bake in hot waffle iron. Serve with syrup, molasses or honey. Yield: about 5 waffles.

This looks like party food but it is a thrift dish—meat pie with popovers.

Dried Fruit Revue

For centuries man has consumed served food in time of harvest to hold against the winter when the earth brings forth no fruit. Among the foods that man early learned to keep were the fruits. These he found could easily be preserved by drying in the sun when they were full ripe and heavy with natural sugars. The processing of dried fruits has kept pace with modern means of food preservation and the dried fruits we eat today come to us in dust-proof packages, of uniform size, attractive and appetizing.

Particularly in winter, the dried fruits are appreciated in making delicious and economical meals. The entire fruit family is invaluable as a source of quickly assimilable food energy. The sugars are already in the form in which they are used by the body so that no digestive change is necessary for their assimilation. The fruits also contain important vitamins and minerals and all these nutritive elements are at their best.

For best results in cooking dried fruits follow the directions below. No soaking is necessary. Count the cooking time after the water starts boiling and keep at a brisk boil, adding more water if necessary. Unless otherwise stated, add sugar only during the last five minutes of cooking.

Prunes: Rinse, cover with water and boil 45 minutes to one hour. No sugar is necessary, but 2 tablespoons for each cup of prunes may be added as desired.

Apricots: Rinse, cover with water, boil 30 to 40 minutes. Allow 1-4 to 1-2 cup sugar for each cup of apricots, depending on taste for sweetness.

Peaches: Rinse, cover with water, boil 5 minutes, remove skins. Cover with fresh water and boil 35 to 45 minutes. Allow 1-4 cup sugar for each cup of peaches.

Figs: Rinse, cover with water, and boil 20 to 30 minutes. Allow 1 tablespoon sugar for each cup of figs, and add for last 15 minutes of cooking.

Pears: Rinse, remove cores, cover with water, and boil 25 to 35 minutes. Allow 1-4 cup sugar for each cup of pears.

Apples: Apple rings or quarters: Rinse, cover with water, boil 40 minutes. Sugar may be omitted or allow 1-4 cup sugar for each cup of fruit. The addition of a few grains of salt rounds out the flavor. For whole apples: Cover fruit with cold water and bring slowly to a boil in covered utensil. Simmer about one hour or until tender.

Raisins: Rinse. Allow 1 cup water for each cup of raisins, boil 10 minutes, adding 1-2 tablespoon sugar for each cup of fruit.

Mixed Dried Fruits: Rinse fruit. Clip cores from pears. Cover generously with water and boil 35 to 40 minutes. Add 1-4 cup sugar for each cup of fruit.

Fruit Purees: Cook fruit slightly longer than when it is to be served whole. Force through a colander, sieve or ricer. One cup of uncooked dried fruit will yield about 1 cup of puree. For some recipes, as whips and sauces, the cooked fruit may be beaten to a pulp rather than made into puree.

The fig filled cake illustrated is made as follows:

Fig-Filled Black-'n'-White Cake. Cake: 1 1-2 cups granulated sugar, 1 cup shortening, 3 eggs, 1 cup milk, 3 1-2 cups sifted flour, 3 teaspoons baking powder, 1 teaspoon salt, 1 teaspoon vanilla extract, 1-4 cup unsweetened cocoa, 1-4 cup hot water, 1-4 teaspoon soda. Cream the sugar and shortening; add beaten eggs and stir to blend. Add milk alternately with flour sifted with baking powder and salt and beat. Stir in flavoring. Pour half of batter into a greased, floured pan. To remain: Sieve or ricer. One cup of uncooked dried fruit will yield about 1 cup of puree. For some recipes, as whips and sauces, the cooked fruit may be beaten to a pulp rather than made into puree.

Hot Chocolate

In the gloom of winter we all know the lure of a fragrant, foamy cup of hot chocolate. Mothers have discovered that chocolate is a means of getting children to take more milk. A cup of hot chocolate is fine in the thermos for school lunch.

Hot Chocolate

2 squares unsweetened chocolate 1 cup water 3 tablespoons sugar Dash of salt 3 cups milk

Add chocolate to water in top of double boiler and place over low flame, stirring until chocolate is melted and blended. Add sugar and salt and boil 4 minutes, stirring constantly. Place over boiling water. Add milk gradually, stirring constantly; then heat. Just before serving, beat with rotary egg beater until light and frothy. Serves 6.

Nazis in France Battle Against Industry Chaos

Germany's Economists Seek To Bring Order to Country.

(Editor's Note: This is the last of four articles highlighting important aspects of the situation in German-occupied France. It was written by an Associated Press correspondent just back from six months in Paris and other parts of the occupied zone.)

By ROY PORTER.

NEW YORK, Jan. 16.—(AP)—The German forces in occupied France are engaged in two wars.

The first is the continuing military campaign against England.

The second is the struggle to reorganize France's industrial and agricultural production to coincide with German economy.

A high German military official told me recently: "It's the first time in history an occupation force ever carried on continuing war against an enemy nation and at the same time conducted an economic reorganization with both operations based in the same territory."

It was only a matter of days after the army marched into Paris that the economic experts followed on their heels. They were all in uniform, and established headquarters under the military administration in the occupied territory.

Economists Arrive.

The mechanized columns still were pushing southward. Bordeaux still was in the process of being occupied. But even before the ruins of shattered towns had ceased smoking, the economists had gone to work on a carefully laid out plan.

Today, that plan is in operation. One of the first things the economic experts did was to undertake a large scale survey of French production, its possibilities and how it had been affected by the war.

Specially trained observers toured the various zones.

All types of transportation—rail, road and river—were the objects of careful studies.

In each particular case, the Germans arrived with production figures for various industries compiled over a period sometimes extending 10 years back. In many cases, these figures showed a decline of as high as 20 per cent during the last five years.

"Our job is to get production back to what it used to be," one expert said, "and then to figure out how we can increase this production to its fullest possible extent."

Decrees Conflict.

All of these surveys and recommendations resulted in a series of regulations and decrees, some issued by the office of the military governor for the occupied territory and others from regional offices.

In a number of instances, decrees conflicted. Often confusion became frequent that the head of one of the economic departments said not long ago: "It begins to look as if we were not only organized for this job but maybe overorganized."

So the aid of a few efficient red-tape cutters was sought and received and things began to move more smoothly.

Early in the occupation and during the period when stocks of available foodstuffs were far below the amount required, many merchants arbitrarily began to boost their prices.

Drastic Price-Fixing.

This constituted what the Germans called bluntly a "threat to the national economy" and resulted in a drastic price-fixing decree. All merchants, whether engaged in wholesale or retail business, were forced to stabilize their prices at the figures quoted on May 1, 1940. No increases could be made except those approved by departmental committees.

Storekeepers who bootlegged or cheated were given stiff fines, jail terms or, for repeated offenses, suffered temporary or permanent closing of their establishments.

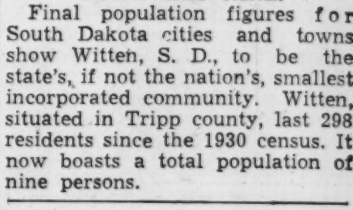

Two months ago, in Paris, a manufacturer drew a fine totalling 900,000 francs for disobeying the price-fixing regulation.

U. S. ENVOY TO LEAVE.

BUDAPEST, Jan. 16.—(UP)—United States Minister to Hungary John F. Montgomery is preparing to leave his post here, because of his wife's health, it was understood today. His successor has not yet been determined.

TOWN HAS NINE.

Final population figures for South Dakota cities and towns show Witten, S. D., to be the state's, if not the nation's, smallest incorporated community. Witten, situated in Tripp county, last 298 residents since the 1930 census. It now boasts a total population of nine persons.

Reserve Officers Called Upon To Do Their Duty

An appeal to 1,500 reserve officers in the state not to shirk their duty by requesting military deferment was made yesterday by Lieutenant Colonel P. S. Moses, president of the Georgia Reserve Officers Association.

His message came as the organization prepared for local observance of National Defense Week on February 12-22. Local meetings, including special church services, are being planned for the celebration.

600 Tuskegee Students Stage Food Walkout

Patrolmen Go to College After Trucker Is Threatened.

TUSKEGEE, Ala., Jan. 16.—(P)—State patrolmen were rushed here late today as a band of striking students at Tuskegee Institute were reported to have threatened a truck driver who sought to unload a cargo of food at the Negro college's dining hall.

Unloading finally was accomplished without incident, while eight patrolmen, equipped with riot paraphernalia, looked on.

The strikers, whose ranks Dr. F. D. Patterson, institute president, estimated to number 500 to 600, started demonstrations yesterday in protest of food served in the dining hall.

They refused to attend classes and gathered in noisy crowds today while the remainder of the institute's 1,400 students went about their studies and chores. The president said he ate with the students Tuesday and found the food "palatable and wholesome."

The truck driver complained to State Patrolman C. C. Huckabaa that the strikers had warned him against unloading, and the officer said they told him "We're running this end of it" when he went to investigate. A call to Montgomery headquarters brought five officers from there and two from Opelika, Meigs.

While an ultimatum was issued by the institute's executive council, and Dr. Patterson announced: "The institute has taken the definite stand that all students not at work or in class at 7 a. m. will be automatically suspended."

The council has been meeting "every two or three hours" with student representatives in an effort to end the protest.

Clear Skies Seen For Atlanta Today

The rain clouds should be disappearing in Atlanta by this afternoon, the weatherman predicted last night.

Showers which fell intermittently through the night will continue this morning with slightly warmer temperatures, but during the afternoon skies will clear and rain disappear.

The low this morning is expected to be near 45 degrees which is a little higher than the recorded high of 42 degrees with yesterday. The low yesterday was 40.

The temperatures tonight and tomorrow will begin to fall with the clearing of the low-hanging clouds and tomorrow's low may be 5 to 10 degrees colder than today's.

Since the current rain spell began there has been but 7 inch of rain to fall, the bureau reported. The rain has been general throughout the state.

Department Store Sales Show 19 Per Cent Gain

Department store sales in the Atlanta Federal Reserve district for the week ending last Saturday gained 19 per cent over the same week a year ago, the Federal Reserve Board reported in Washington yesterday. Gain for the nation as a whole was 16 per cent.

Gains reported by other districts were: Boston, 13; New York, 14; Philadelphia, 29; Cleveland, 15; Richmond, 26; Chicago, 12; St. Louis, 28; Kansas City, 14; Dallas, 8, and San Francisco, 18 per cent. No figure was available for the Minneapolis district.

GOLDEN WEDDING DAY.
JEFFERSON, Ga., Jan. 16.—Mr. and Mrs. John W. Alexander observed their golden wedding anniversary at their home today.

Vice War Rests Upon Civilians, General Says

COLUMBIA, S. C., Jan. 16.—(UP)—Lieutenant Hugh A. Drum, commander of the First Army, today believed it was mainly the responsibility of civilian officers to suppress vice near military camps.

Drum spent the past two days inspecting the 8th and 30th divisions at Fort Jackson. He held a press conference before leaving for his headquarters at Governors Island, N. Y.

The general said civilian communities would do "a great thing" for the welfare of soldiers by "cleaning up undesirable and unhealthy conditions" in the neighborhood of military camps.

Bill Would Abolish Inspectors of Eggs

Senator Ben W. Fortson will introduce a bill to abolish state egg inspectors, he announced yesterday.

Fortson said he saw no necessity for such a state job and that his bill would eliminate all egg inspection fees.

He planned to introduce it at yesterday's session but members voted to adjourn before he had a chance.

"I am interested in abolishing everything that is not essential," Fortson said.

Effort To Reduce Jury Costs Begun

An effort to reduce the cost of jurors for Fulton courts was begun yesterday when the county commission unanimously adopted a resolution asking the judges of the courts to devise a plan for "pooling" jurors so they can be used in all courts during the week they are called for traverse jury duty.

At present jurors are called separately for Fulton criminal courts, criminal and civil divisions of superior court and for the civil court of Fulton county. They can serve only in the courts in which they are called. If the panels were "pooled," a fewer number would suffice and thus save the county money.

Negro Aviation Unit To Train At Tuskegee

33 Pilots, 27 Planes Will Be Included in Squadron.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 16.—(P)—Formation of a Negro pursuit squadron, the first such unit in Army history, was announced today by Undersecretary Patterson of the War Department.

The unit, made up of a ground crew of about 400, 33 pilots and 27 planes, is to be organized and trained at Tuskegee, Ala., where Mr. Patterson said a flying field and other new facilities would be provided.

The formation of the squadron was said by the undersecretary to be part of the Army's policy to have Negro units in all branches of the service.

The enlisted men for the squadron will be concentrated at Chanute Field, Ill., for training of several months before being sent to Tuskegee.

At the same time fledgling pilots will be selected from students in the civil aviation training program who have completed the secondary course fitting them for the Army Air Corps basic training course.

Patterson said the War Department hoped to start the training next month. He said the air corps experience had indicated a year or 18 months would be required before the unit could function as an operating squadron.

Princess Stephanie's Plea for Delay Denied

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 16.—(P)—Princess Stephanie Hohenlohe's fight to delay her deportation hearing failed tonight.

Joseph Bullock, the Princess' counsel, said the United States Immigration Department had "flat-footedly" turned down a request for postponement, "notwithstanding a physician's certificate that she is ill. I don't know how she'll suffice at the hearing, stretcher or wheel chair, if she is still alive."

Talmadge's Offer Refused by Head

Former Revenue Commissioner T. Grady Head, one of the few appointees of Ex-Governor Rivers to whom new Governor Talmadge offered a job, yesterday declined that job.

Talmadge replaced Head as revenue commissioner with appointment of John M. Forrester, Cordele attorney, and former secretary of the Georgia Public Service Commission. Head was then appointed an attorney for the Labor Department.

At his home in Ringgold Head said "I cannot accept the appointment. I'm going to practice law in northwest Georgia. I do not want to elaborate on that statement."

Bill To Double Insurance Levy Given House

20 Measures, Two Resolutions Placed Before Representatives.

By JACK SPALDING.
Twenty bills and two resolutions asking for constitutional amendments yesterday were introduced in the lower house of the general assembly. After reading the bills the house adjourned until Wednesday when members will have returned from Washington and President Roosevelt's third inauguration. Wednesday is also expected to bring announcement of complete committee posts, few of which have been filled. Thursday, at the expiration of the 10-day organization session, the house will reconvene for debate and action on bills presented.

Milk Control Act.
Measures introduced yesterday included one to reconstitute the Milk Control Board, now functioning under an emergency act which expires next August, and a revenue-raising measure doubling the gross insurance premium levy which now stands at 1 and 1-2 per cent. Under the last act, additional revenue raised would be divided between the common school and old-age pension funds. Other bills brought in included one amending the compensation law, enabling employers to sue in the name of injured employees and doubling the cash value of a lost thumb; a nonadministration proposal reconstituting the Highway Department and the second bill of the session to bring Georgia seed laws in line with those established by the federal government.

Camp Regulation.
A measure introduced by Representative Ford, of Worth, making it a misdemeanor for a tourist camp operator to admit guests without registration of their true names was referred to the committee on hygiene and sanitation by Speaker Randall Evans. A resolution for a constitutional amendment offered by Representative Davis, of Coweta, would provide for an annual 45-day session of the general assembly, preceded by a three-day organization session instead of the present biennial sessions preceded by 10-day organization periods. The seven-man milk control board, established in March, 1937, regulates the production, distribution, sale and price of milk in sections of the state where milk sheds have been set up at the request of dairymen. The act under whose authority it operates expires next August 15. Yesterday's bill constitutes another board with the same functions and powers as the present one.

Would Double Revenue.
The levy on insurance premiums would approximately double the $933,489.07 tax received by the state last year from that source. Another house bill aimed at insurance and indemnity companies would make them joint defendants in cases concerning private carriers or individuals. The last measure was introduced by Representatives Smith and Smith, of Carroll, and the former by Representatives Mills, of Miller, and Drake, of Seminole.

Illustrating Georgia's progress in efforts to diversify its agriculture was an amendment offered making it a crime not to pay for cattle, hogs, sheep, goats, horses, peacocks, watermelons, canteloupes, and mules when bought from a planter or commission merchant for cash. Previously the list protected by the act included only cotton, corn, rice, crude turpentine, spirits, turpentine, rosin, pitch, tar and other products.

Districts Proposed.
Representative Pickett's highway bill would divide the state into five districts. Each district would elect a board member in the general election of 1942 for a four-year term to run concurrent with the Governor's. If passed at this session the Governor is given the power to appoint three members to serve until January, 1943.

Southerners Favor Sending British Supplies in U. S. Ships

Gallup Poll Finds Country Opposes Action by Small Majority; Sharp Change Noted in Public Attitude Since Start of War.

By DR. GEORGE GALLUP,
Director, American Institute of Public Opinion.
(Copyright, 1941.)

PRINCETON, N. J., Jan. 16.—One of the biggest issues of the next few months is certain to be the question of sending war materials to Britain in American ships.

It is argued on the one hand that there is no use making America an "arsenal of democracy" if, owing to British shipping losses in the Atlantic, our arms and war materials cannot be transported across the ocean to the people who need them most. On the other hand, many people believe that sending American ships with these materials into the war zone will ultimately mean war.

The Institute, through a nation-wide interviewing staff, put this question to a cross-section of the American voting public: "Since the English have lost many ships, they may not be able to come and get the war materials we make for them. If this proves to be the case, should American ships with American crews be used to carry war materials to England?"

The results indicate that public sentiment is about evenly divided, with a slight majority against the proposal.

What makes these results especially interesting is their contrast with the results of a poll made in September, 1939—the first month of the European war. That survey found an overwhelming desire among the American voters to keep United States ships out of the war area.

Previous Institute studies have found the south more in favor of aid to Britain even at the risk of war than any other section. Again, in today's study, the south stands out from other sections as the most in favor of sending our ships through the war zone, while the middle west is the least in favor.

Send Supplies to Britain on American Ships?

	Yes	No	Undecided
New England and Middle Atlantic	39%	47%	14%
East Central	38	50	12
West Central	38	49	13
South	58	26	16
Far West	45	42	13

The issue of sending ships to Britain has one further aspect which was explored in today's survey. Should the American navy be used to guard American ships crossing to England? This issue was put to persons who had voted in favor of sending the ships, with the following result:

Vote of Persons Who Favor Sending American Ships.

	Should Not	Should	Undecided
Navy Should Convey These Ships	82%	12	6

Members would elect a chairman from this number. Each highway district would comprise two congressional districts.

The seed law put in the hopper yesterday by Representative Richardson of Hart follows one introduced Wednesday by Representative Brooks, of Mitchell. Sponsors of both bills said the enactment of either would save Georgia farmers thousands of dollars a year by assuring them good seed.

Control Seed Sale.
The bill would forbid the sale of unlabeled and untested seed by seedsmen of the state but would not abrogate the farmer's right to swap seeds with his neighbors. Both bills provide for the establishment of seed testing laboratories and seed councils.

Amendment to the compensation act, introduced by Representative Turner, Dunaway and Murphy, of DeKalb, asks that compensation for a lost thumb be 50 per cent of an employee's average weekly wage for 60 weeks instead of the present 30 weeks. It also allows employers to sue for damages in the names of their injured employees instead of their own names and holds them liable only for the difference between damages collected and the damage done.

A bill brought forward by Representatives Smith and Smith, of Carroll, would prohibit the settlement of damage claims within five days without the permission of the superior court judge of the home of the perpetrator.

Judges Affected.
Superior court judges were singled out for attention in two bills. Two affidavits filed with the clerk of the court that the judge is prejudiced in a case would disqualify him from trying it according to the provisions of one bill, while another asks that a mistrial be declared whenever a superior court judge discloses litigants or counsel have asked that his charge to the jury be placed in writing.

Revenue derived from taxes on intangible personal property now paid into the general fund of incorporated municipalities would be divided between the general fund and school districts in proportion to the school levies of the municipality on tangible property, a bill introduced by Representatives Welch and Dorsey, of Cobb, proposes.

Representatives Boone, of Wilkinson; Mann, of Whitfield; Bruce, of Troup; Evans, of McDuffie, and Smith, of Hall, proposed a bill repealing a provision requiring two years of publication before a newspaper could be designated a county organ. The measure would permit county ordinaries or commissioners in counties where they have such officials to designate the county organ.

Jackson Is Named Beasley Assistant
John C. Beasley, newly-appointed state superintendent of banks, yesterday named O. G. Jackson, of Atlanta, as assistant superintendent.

Beasley announced the job of general agent held by F. A. Tappan, of White Plains, had been abolished. He also said he had dismissed two secretaries.

Move Hinted for State To Regulate Morticians
Walter McDonald, chairman of the Georgia Public Service Commission, said yesterday he had been approached on the possibility of placing funeral directors under the regulation of his commission.

McDonald said there was criticism in some quarters over the percentage of profit enjoyed by those in this business, but added that, so far as he knew, there would be no legislation introduced in an attempt to regulate them.

cost of administration of all relief, pay the county's contribution to Grady hospital, Battle Hill hospital and take care of the county's contributions to 21 of the Community Chest institutions as well.

Another appropriation of $31,500 for the almshouse operation is included in the tentative budget. All of these items must be paid out of the proceeds of the levy to be made in the fall by the commissioners. If the increase in the levy limit asked in Couch's bill is not granted, the county cannot meet these obligations, officials say. However, the county has the authority to levy another one mill tax for hospitals, which it is not levying.

The county budget this year is based on an estimated tax digest of $285,000,000, which, plus the county's share of intangibles, is expected to yield $4,611,398.

A two and three-quarters mill levy on this digest, plus intangibles, probably would yield $829,583.33, according to estimates by James L. Respass, auditor. Approximately $748,000 is set up in the budget for relief, hospitals, charities and the almshouse operation.

The difference in the amount set up for these purposes and the expected yield of two and three-quarters mills is explained in this way by Respass: the budget law requiring the county to budget this year at 2 per cent less than the amount of actual cash collected last year, forces reduction in all departments which the commissioners control.

Many charges are fixed by law, such as judges and commissioners' salaries, and could not be reduced. Therefore, other expenditures which the commissioners control were cut roughly 10 per cent to effect the 2 per cent reduction.

City Voting Law Revisions Urged
Early revision of permanent registration laws affecting city voters will be sought of the Georgia legislature with the approval of city council, Alderman Frank H. Reynolds, chairman of a special committee composed of council members and citizens, informed city council's ordinance committee yesterday.

Although details of the program are not yet complete, Reynolds said it probably will provide that a voter's name will be stricken from the registration list if he fails to cast his ballot in two consecutive elections or primaries and he will be forced to re-register to get his name back on the list.

Tax Collection Increase Sought
A $1,000,000 increase in income tax collections during the coming year is the goal of Allen Darden, new director of the income tax division of the State Department of Revenue.

Darden pointed out that his division had expanded greatly since 1936 and that during the last fiscal year collections amounted to $5,500,000.

A native of Warren county, the new director has been active in politics for many years. Darden served in the state senate during the 1935-1936 session. He now lives in Cumming.

Deadline for Filing High Court Cases Near
Deadline for filing cases for the January term of the Georgia supreme court is 12 o'clock Monday, Miss Katherine Bleckley announced yesterday.

She explained that the docket was supposed to close on January 19 but since that day falls on Sunday another day is allowed.

Group Leaves Tomorrow for Inauguration

Two Trains Will Haul Georgians to U. S. Capital.

Two special trains carrying the Democratic leaders of Georgia to Washington for the inauguration of President Roosevelt Monday will leave tomorrow afternoon.

The "Governor's Special" will leave at 1 o'clock and the other will follow about 15 minutes later. Both will consist of 12 cars.

The general assembly will be recessed to permit some of its members to attend the inauguration.

Heading the delegation of Georgians will be Governor Talmadge, who only last Tuesday was inaugurated for a third term, and James S. Peters, of Manchester, chairman of the state Democratic executive committee.

An elaborate entertainment program will await the Cracker Delegates in the national capital. They will attend dinners and dances and official functions in connection with the inauguration.

Parties Planned.

Special entertainment has been arranged for the electors of the 48 states. They will be honored at a formal dinner, attend a reception at the White House, and sit in a special section during the inauguration.

Several Georgia electors will make the trip.

The Georgia trains will be parked in a convenient location in Washington to permit those who do not have hotel accommodations to occupy the sleepers without additional cost.

The Georgia delegation will leave Washington on the return trip early Tuesday morning and arrive in Atlanta late Tuesday afternoon.

The Gentleman--

From Whitfield...From Hawkinsville From Henry...

Gordon Mann, Whitefield county representative.

L. C. Ragan, senator from Hawkinsville (14th district).

R. O. Jackson, Henry county representative.

A World War veteran, first commander of the Dalton Post, American Legion, Gordon Mann has practiced law for 23 years. A former attorney member of the State Board of Accountants, this 46-year-old representative is interested in schools and education. For a better system of intellectual training in the state, Mann intends to concentrate his interests while in the lower house.

A young man, possessed of much vitality and interest in the state's political world, Mann is the father of three children.

Hawkinsville is without a mayor these days. He's sitting in the senate and commuting between the capital city and his home. Senator L. C. Ragan has served in the legislature for six years and launches his session this year with an anxiety to stress economy and to "get the state out of debt."

In high gear all the time, he reports, the senator is mayor, banker, wholesale grocer, farmer, and railroad man down in his home town. He always votes his own convictions regardless of the administration. He is the father of four children.

A newcomer to the legislature, R. O. Jackson entered the race for Henry county representative in order that he might render a service to his state and so that he, too, might get some direct benefit from the state's law-making body. Having practiced law for 35 years he felt that both his service and his personal benefit might be realized.

He has no particular bills to promote, no crusading to do, no loud arguments to stage. He's here to get a cross-section of the wheels behind the law and is simply interested in the general activities of the house of representatives. The 62-year-old representative has two children.

Captain Mayo, State Patrol Treasurer, Quits

Captain R. G. Mayo, treasurer of the Georgia State Highway Patrol since its organization in 1937, resigned yesterday morning and was immediately replaced by Sergeant John H. Lott.

Mayo, whose home is in Social Circle, was one of the patrol's organizers and instructors. He directed the purchasing of the organization's first equipment.

Captain Lott, of Waycross, was a former patrol captain before he was demoted to the rank of sergeant in 1938. Also an original patrol member, he will direct personnel as well as act as treasurer.

Lieutenant O. W. Whiteside, of Canton, who for the past year has been in charge of the Swainsboro patrol district, has been demoted to the rank of trooper, and Lieutenant H. B. Freeman has been transferred to the Swainsboro branch from Waycross. A new lieutenant will be named from the trooper ranks within three days, it was stated at headquarters.

Lieutenants Freeman and J. L. Bussey, head of the North Georgia district, and Captain Arthur Hutchins, in charge of the bureau of identification, have not been affected by recent changes in the patrol's organization.

Trooper R. V. Richards has been promoted to the rank of corporal and will succeed the late Corporal Fred Black, who was murdered north of Ringgold before Christmas.

Previously announced was the appointment of J. J. Elliott, Atlanta city policeman, to succeed Captain Frank Simmons as commanding officer of the patrol. Simmons will remain with the group as a trooper. Also announced was the resignation of Sergeant A. L. Bagley, head of the Gainesville sub-station, who was succeeded by P. B. Weeks.

106-PUPIL SCHOOL BUS.

BRUNSWICK, Ga., Jan. 16.—One of the largest school buses in Georgia, with a capacity of 106 passengers, went into operation yesterday on the St. Simons island and Sea Island school route. The bus has a 29.6-foot body, with an over-all measurement of 40 feet.

Natural Breathing Helps Your Circulation

By Dr. William Brady.

Each heart beat pumps five or six ounces of blood into the great artery (aorta), then after the beat the pressure of blood in the aorta closes the valve so that no blood can flow back into the heart. The great artery and the other arteries farther from the heart help to propel the blood along its course by their elastic rebound and the contraction of the voluntary muscles or their elastic "tone" (if the muscles are not paralyzed or weak from disuse or nutritional deficiency) also aids in driving the blood through the arteries. Even in the finest arteries visible under the microscope, the arterioles, there is enough blood pressure to send the blood through the so-called capillary bed, that is, to cause it to ooze or filter between tissue cells or fibers.

In the capillary bed the arterial blood gives up its oxygen to the tissue cells and the fuel (blood sugar) the cells require in order to function; and the blood picks up the carbon dioxide and other combustion products which must be carried back to the lungs. From the capillary bed the blood begins its return journey in the smallest visible veins, called venules. (There are no capillary vessels—capillaries, so-called, are merely spaces between cells or fibers). There is little pressure in the venules or smallest veins. What force, then, drives the blood back through the veins?

The veins are equipped with valves at intervals along their course. Pressure by muscles around the veins squeezes blood along, but only toward the heart, for the valves prevent back flow. Not all veins have valves, but chiefly those veins which are more or less vertical when one is on all fours. So the veins in the legs and arms have valves, but the veins in the trunk generally do not. Hence it helps the circulation to get out of the vertical and into the horizontal position; not so much just lying down as when the muscles are used in the horizontal position.

Aspiration is an important aid in the circulation through the veins. Aspiration is the suction effect produced by a full inspiration. During inspiration (taking in air) pressure within the chest is lowered and at the same time pressure within the abdomen is increased (by downward contraction of the diaphragm) and the effect of this is to carry considerable blood from the many veins in the chest, nearer the heart. Of course some of this blood is carried into the heart, and it can't flow back into the veins during expiration because the valves of the heart prevent backflow. Thus natural breathing acts as a booster pump to help the circulation.

Trouble is that most people do not know how to breathe naturally. It is something worth studying and practicing regularly. Belly breathing, I call it, and that's the proper name for it.

Wife Needs Outside Activities

By Caroline Chatfield.

The other day at Town Hall in New York we heard a distinguished author and teacher lecture on the modern family. She was as full of ideas as an egg of meat and we hung on her words. When we got home we boiled her down and this is what we had left: Modern conditions are so changed that nothing is what it used to be except our natural desire to love and be loved and we've got to fit these desires into new patterns, realizing all our relationships, even reduce the idea of loving and being loved to a science—to heck with sentiment.

Everything has got to be budgeted: time, money, interest, even affection, and every member of the family group has got to learn to be contented with his or her place on mother's budget plan. Ridiculous for papa to expect mama to stay home to kiss him goodbye, meet him when he comes in and stick around to nurse him. He must realize that whether or not it is necessary for the wife to earn money for the family, it is necessary for her to have considerable outside activities, activities too time consuming to permit her being nursemaid to her own infants much less to her husband.

Adult men, really grown up men, understand that a husband, children and home are not enough to fill up the modern woman's life. She must take her tank to the filling station of financial, civic, intellectual, political interests regularly or the motor won't go. The more activities she engages in on the outside the more time she spends with her children. The sociologists can prove it by statistics (anything else is necessary matter) that working mothers spend more actual hours with their progeny than leisure women, that the children of working mothers never suffer from smothering affection which cripples the children emotionally.

More: an intelligent working wife actually runs a better systematized home than a leisure wife, because her hours are fixed and budgeted, whereas the leisure wife plays cards today, drinks tea tomorrow, attends luncheons and dinners another day and Lord knows when she's going to be at home.

With the proper care and cosmetics you can have, not envy, a soft, lovely skin such as Ruth Hussey's. She is featured in Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's "Flight Command."

Lemon Lotion Is Quick Cleanser

By Winifred Ware.

A fresh, young skin should be one of your prized and cherished possessions. Nature probably granted "the school-girl complexion" to young girls as something to have and to hold as long as possible. The first step in skin loveliness is thorough cleansing. There are many cleansing agents; light and heavy creams, and thick and thin lotions. Today, however, we bring you a lemon lotion. And when we say lemon, we mean the lotion really contains lemon, for the labeling on cosmetics today is exact. When the label on a bottle or container says something contains lemon, cucumber, or whatever it may be, you can be sure the contents include that ingredient. Because of the government labeling act, all foods and cosmetics and other items are labeled as plainly as is possible for consumers' guidance.

But back to the lemon lotion. We might call it a three-in-one lotion because it cleanses and stimulates and acts as a light, mild bleach, although its main purpose is for quick cleansing. It is a fragrant liquid, cooling to the skin, and it cleanses thoroughly as well as acting as a stimulant to the skin. In addition to this, the liquid is light and harmless bleaches. Perhaps you can remember that grandmother, not having access to the well-stocked toilet goods counters of our day, made many of her own cosmetics. She used lemons freely, so it is said, for keeping hands and skin lily-white.

This is a grand lotion to use regularly as your cleansing agent and quite as handy as well as helpful lotion to keep in the desk drawer at the office. Only 85 cents a bottle, we think you'll like it once you have given it a trial. Winifred Ware, whom you may call at WA. 6545, will give you the name of the lemon lotion. Write to her at The Constitution if you live out of town, and enclose a stamped envelope.

Indoor Gardens Lend Cozy Air

You'd never know Jack Frost was at work outside when your window sports a cheery little indoor garden with its woody terrarium, trailing bracket plant and graceful palm.

And in any not too sunny window you can have a terrarium just like this gem, planted with holly fern and miniature boxwood of deep green, flowering strawberry begonia and patches of bright lettuce-colored lycopodium.

Just fill the bottom of a terrarium or old fish bowl with a few inches of soil, moisten well and put in your tiny plants. Then cover your terrarium with glass and you've a small hothouse that will keep warm and moist, have plants thriving. All you need to do is give your little garden an occasional teaspoon of water and wipe off any drops that collect on the glass.

And what lovely trailing plants you can have tumbling over your window. Blue-flowered periwinkle is charming in a bracket pot and easy to rear. Or try graceful grape ivy, glossy-leaved philodendron.

Also good-natured is the favorite cecropia. Just give it a rich, well-drained soil, lots of moisture and wash the leaves occasionally with soapy water. And in brightly sunny windows you can have a just as delightful array of plants. Let your terrarium house a miniature cactus garden, put yellow-flowered oxalis in your bracket pot and complete the picture with a flowering maple, or a gorgeous bloom of yellow or scarlet shades.

Our 40-page booklet, "Success With House Plants and Flowers," gives full instructions for growing fascinating terrariums and dish gardens. Tells how to grow bulbs, flowering and foliage plants, ferns and vines. Has directions for growing plants in water; tips on watering, repotting, checking pests.

Send 15 cents in coins for our booklet, SUCCESS WITH HOUSE PLANTS AND FLOWERS, to Home Institute, The Constitution, Atlanta, Ga. Write plainly your name, address, and the name of booklet.

MY DAY: Infantile Paralysis Drive Opens

By Eleanor Roosevelt.

WASHINGTON, Wednesday.—Yesterday afternoon the first party opening the infantile paralysis drive was held here at the White House. Decorations designed by Mr. Lester Gaba were used for the table. These decorations can be carried out for any small party which any woman may be able to give in her own home for a small group of friends. I hope that many women will feel an interest in having parties for the purpose of helping the children who have suffered from infantile paralysis in the past, or who may suffer in the future.

Mrs. Claude Wickard, wife of the secretary of agriculture, and Miss Grace Moore took part in the broadcast before we had tea. I think the most appealing and effective person in the room and on the air was Delores Francis, about eight years old, who was a victim at the age of four months. She showed what care and gallantry of spirit will do in the way of rehabilitation, and spoke clearly and simply.

Immediately after tea, I went over to the place outside of the National Broadcasting Company building, where the "Mile of Dimes" was started, and spoke a few words over the radio. They tell me that there are 30 other cities in which "Mile of Dimes" programs are being arranged this year.

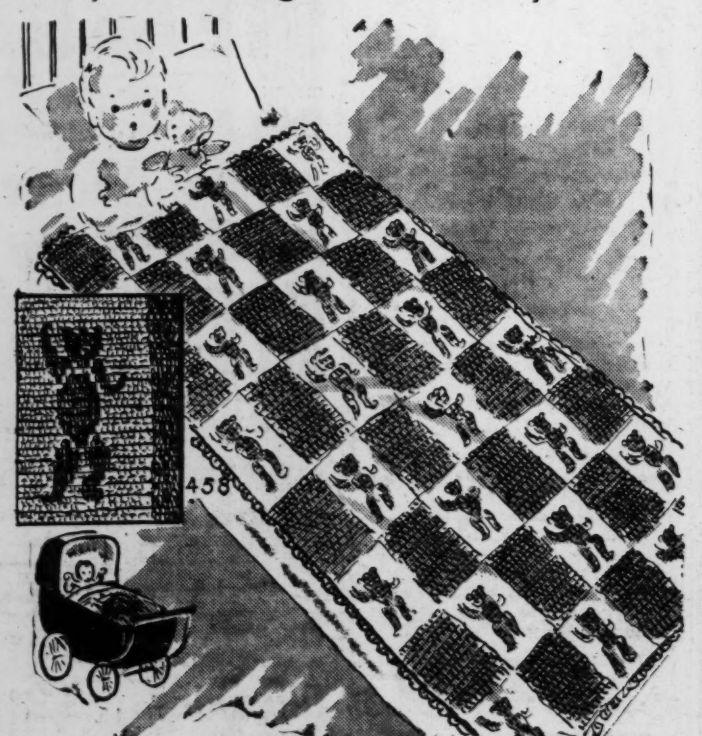

This morning I went to the Children's hospital for the photographs and movies of the work which is being done there. These are used in the infantile paralysis drive. There are two appointments before lunch and then I shall have the pleasure of luncheon with Mrs. Frank Knox, wife of the secretary of the navy. This lunch was postponed because I wanted to go to meet my children on their arrival at Hyde Park last weekend. I am still grateful for Mrs. Knox's understanding of my desire to be in the country for two days with the children when they arrived in the east.

Yesterday I had a delightful time with Mrs. Robert Jackson, wife of the attorney general. This seems to be a week of lunches with the cabinet ladies.

The National Conference of Christians and Jews has just notified me that the week of February 22 to 28, 1941, will be designated as the eighth annual brotherhood week; when Protestants, Catholics and Jews in over 2,000 communities will join together to consider how best to maintain this country "one nation indivisible, with liberty and justice for all."

Let us hope that the spirit which has built this country will remain with us always and that we shall never forget that people of all races and religions have made our nation strong and that only by remaining united can we remain so.

Never in Film History Has Hollywood Had Such A Shortage of Male Actors

By Sheila Graham.

HOLLYWOOD, Jan. 16.—Oh, to be a young man in Hollywood! Never in the history of making films has there been such a shortage, and such opportunities for men who want to act. Robert Cummings, for instance, is working in three pictures. I don't know how he does it. His name is on the casting schedule for R. K. O.'s "The Devil and Miss Jones," with Jean Arthur. (Bob won this assignment from James Craig. The role required a more elfin personality than that of Craig, who is the strong silent type.) Cummings is also working in Metro's "Free and Easy," with Ruth Hussey. And Fox's "Miami." The scramble for Stirling Hayden, Glenn Ford, Dennis Morgan, Craig, James Stephenson, Robert Preston and Franchot Tone must be exceedingly comforting to their agents, bank managers—and Mr. Ego.

Bette Davis and George Brent are joining the procession to the Mardi Gras. They have been teamed for "City of New Orleans," a romantic tale of the early days in that city. But they had better hurry if they want to get ahead of Marlene Dietrich and Bruce Cabot, who are en route in "The Flame of New Orleans." . . . I don't think Dorothy Lamour has yet emoted with Joel McCrea. She gets him in "Dildo Cay." Joel is the most romantic and important of Dotty's screen boy-friends. The director of the opus is good, too—Edward H. Griffith, who recently megaphoned "Virginia."

Looks as though Walter Wanger will win out with Quentin Reynolds. All the studios here with war epics on their minds want Quentin for technical and writing jobs. Wanger has offered him the largest number of dollars for his American squadron in the RAF picture.

Carole Lombard is not accepting movie jobs—unless they have a far-distant production date. She will rest and vegetate—with a little hunting—in the country—on the advice of Johns Hopkins physicians. This was why Carole and Clark did not go on to New York from Baltimore and Washington as they had planned before leaving Hollywood. . . . Not only has "Legacy" been changed to "Adam Had Four Sons," but the movie is quite different from the book. There are four sons, not five. Warner Baxter does not commit a murder, and one of his sons is not a suicide.

Rosemary Lane is wanted at R. K. O. for "Hang Out the Moon." She is currently lending her talents to personal stage appearances. That reminds me: There are three streets in north Hollywood named for the Lane sisters—"Rosemary Lane," "Priscilla Lane," and "Lola Lane." What, no Lovers' Lane? There is also a "De Mille drive," "Pickford avenue," "Goldwyn avenue," a "Talmadge street," and a lot more. It is said to be remembered by Hollywood as a street than as a film personality.

Shirley Temple's trailer dressing-room, given her by Darryl Zanuck and Twentieth Century-Fox when Shirley was the pride, joy and dollar-winner for the company, is getting a spring cleaning for its trip to Metro and Andy Hardy. In spite of Shirley's recent discovery that school is "kinda dull," she will get through the spring term before reporting for film duty. In addition to the Hardy film, Shirley will appear in a musical with Rooney and Judy Garland.

Football Player Tommy Harmon plays the big role in Paramount's next football epic. This sort of casting is practically unique. I can't think how they managed to avoid casting Tommy as an opera singer or something. Prior to the football epic, the grid star appears in the studio's "College Mystery." Good luck, Tommy!

Today's Charm Tip.

Don't get to depend upon a servant or family member to do your fetching and carrying. Run upstairs yourself, get up and get that book from the shelf and so on. It's the youthful woman's way of keeping from "settling."

Longer and longer the coat skirt goes—to make the swankiest lounging ensemble of the season, for Carole Lombard to wear in RKO Radio's "Mr. & Mrs. Smith." Knee-length robe, cut very straight, is black velvet with a high wrap-around yoke of black and white dot silk. Pajamas are dotted silk to match. Note that the trousers are slim and straight, a step away from the "they look like a skirt" school. And high time, too.

Pert Button-Front Style for Spring

By Lillian Mae.

Watch out for an early attack of spring fever when you see this bewitching Lillian Mae frock. Pattern 4692 is the very essence of fresh—young, capricious, . . . fresh . . . gay! It's in familiar button-front style but with an appealing new softness. See how the curved side bodice sections are nicely gathered at the seams. The back is in slim princess style. Aren't the sweetheart neckline and the optional pockets vivacious touches? One version shows ric-rac at the sleeves, the pockets and above the flaring hem. Another uses printed contrast to make the wide hem border, the short sleeves and each side-front of the bodice . . . a study in print-and-plain.

Pattern 4692 is available in misses' and women's sizes 12, 14, 16, 18, 20, 22, 24, 26, 28 and 30. Size 16 takes 3 7/8 yards 35-inch fabric and 3 1/8 yards ric-rac. Send 15 cents in coins for this Lillian Mae pattern. Do not send stamps. Write plainly size, name, address and style number.

Are you too tall? Too short? Too plump? Too slim? If you are irregularly proportioned in any way, let the Lillian Mae Perfitt Foundation Pattern 4114 take the guess-work out of dressmaking. This "basic figure" pattern is fitted and adjusted to your exact measurements in tissue; then cut out in muslin for a permanent record. Pin your dress patterns to it, make the necessary changes, and the finished frock will fit with perfection. Designed for sizes 14 to 20; 32 to 50. Size 16 requires

Bureau Urges Expansion of Auditorium

Convention and Visitors' Group Calls Municipal Plant Inadequate.

The Atlanta Convention and Visitors' Bureau at its 28th annual meeting last night adopted a resolution urging that the present city auditorium be expanded into a structure which may serve as a "municipal convention plant fully equipped to meet competitive situations," and the incoming president, A. L. Belle Isle, stressed as one of his major aims the realization of this objective.

Despite the tremendous volume of convention and tourist business which came to Atlanta last year, it was pointed out that much business was lost because Atlanta has no convention hall big enough to house the displays that many big firms demand.

It was also resolved that the recent fire damage to the front of the building should be immediately repaired.

The resolution pointed out that although Atlanta last year realized more than a million dollars from visitors and conventions, adequate auditorium facilities are absolutely essential if it is to meet the competition of other cities. The present auditorium, the resolution stated, is wholly inadequate, a fact which threatens to reduce the city's income from conventions in the future.

T. Russ Hill, of Detroit, addressing the convention, cited the fact that 1940 in many respects went far ahead of even the boom year of 1929 in many fields of business, and that 1941 should see even greater progress. However, with the world situation as it is, this tremendously increased national income will have to be poured back into the mills of war, he declared.

"There is no use to kid ourselves. We may have to spend down to our last dollar if that is the only way to save civilization. Whether we help England is beside the point. The fact is we are not yet in position to help England or ourselves. . . . It will take years to correct our present situation. It will take a lot of money, and it may take a lot of men."

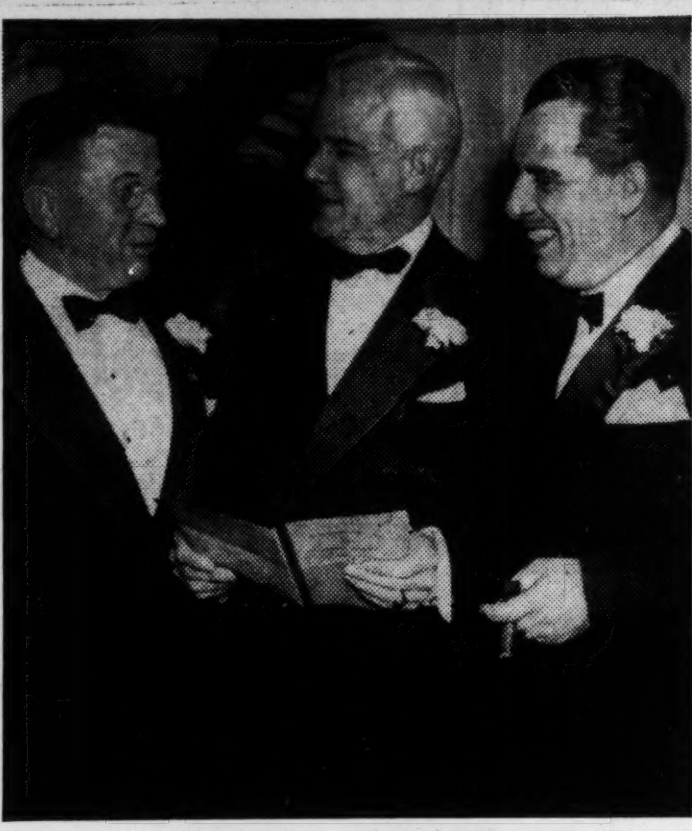

On future taxation he said: "Taxes are going to get much worse and we must face that fact philosophically. The day for making great fortunes in private business is passed. The place of private capital and enterprise in the politically direct scheme of national economy will be a minor one from now on. It is a cold fact that we must face."

"Businessmen have two roads to travel. The first is to increase earnings to the point where what is left for them will maintain their standard levels of activity or to reduce those levels to the point where lessened income will carry it. Personally I believe the latter course is safer."

Mike Benton, retiring president of the bureau, was presented a silver pitcher and tray as a token of appreciation of his work for the past year. The presentation was made by Toastmaster Joel C. Harris Jr.

New officers and directors who were sworn in by Judge Virlyn B. Moore at last night's meeting were Oby T. Brewer, vice president; M. M. O'Sullivan, secretary, and Erle Cooke, treasurer.

New directors named were Troy Chastain, Mike Benton, D. O. Beusse, Jackson P. Dick, A. L. Zachry and J. C. Haynes.

British Sink Own Cruiser After Nazi Hits

First Major English Casualty in Developing Mediterranean Fight.

LONDON, Jan. 16.—(P)—The 9,100-ton cruiser Southampton has been sent to the bottom as the first major British casualty in the struggle between Nazi dive bombers and the British fleet now developing so fiercely in the Mediterranean.

The admiralty announced tonight that the Southampton, hard hit January 10 in the first engagement for German aerial formations sent south to co-operate with the Italians in an effort to break British sea power, had been sunk subsequently by her own command.

While she was being towed as a cripple to port, it was explained, fire broke out aboard and there was nothing left to do but bury her in the sea. The British cruiser was the fourth British ship lost since the war began—there were 64 in service at its outbreak—and the largest warship yet lost as the result of air attack.

"The great majority of her crew have been saved," the admiralty stated.

Naval circles here declared that the loss of the Southampton "doesn't prove anything" in the classic debate on the degree of vulnerability of the modern warship to air attack. It was not bombs, but fire that finished her off, they said.

The field guns have thundered intermittently. By moonlight British patrols penetrate the Tobruk defense zone for sporadic skirmishes. The massing of British men and material continues. The Italians have one large naval gun—the British call it "Tobruk Tom"—and it provides the heaviest of the defensive shelling. The British are trying hard to silence it. Otherwise, the Italian artillery action usually is weak.

The freighter gave her position, in calls received here, as "latitude 38.28 north, longitude 20.43 west." A 482-foot ship out of Southampton, the Zealandic customarily trades between England and New Zealand.

British Valor Magnificent in Illustrious Raid

American Saw Youths Man Guns Sprayed by Bullets.

By LARRY ALLEN.
 WITH THE BRITISH MEDITERRANEAN FLEET, Jan. 16.—(P)—The United States, closely watching British fleet operations in the Mediterranean, has boosted its staff of official observers to four with a fifth expected to arrive soon.

To help gather data which British fleet officers say should be invaluable to the United States Navy Department in connection with its vast construction program, Lieutenant-Commander James Fife Jr., of Reno, Nev., until recently assistant naval attaché at London, has joined Lieutenant-Commanders Kenneth P. Hartman, of Philadelphia, and John N. Opie III, of Long Beach, Cal., as observers with the eastern Mediterranean units.

Lieutenant-Commander Augustus D. Clark, of New York, is with the western Mediterranean squadron. Hartman, who was aboard the aircraft carrier Illustrious during the seven hours it was attacked by German dive bombers January 10 off Sicily, and Opie and Clark also were on the London naval attaché's staff, which was enlarged soon after the European war started.

Aboard the Illustrious, Hartman saw what may well go down in history as one of the most magnificent displays of courage under fire ever recorded.

Youthful seamen and their officers stood up under seven hours of attack by German dive bombers which rained thousands of pounds of bombs alongside and on deck and flung torpedo after torpedo at the side of the Illustrious.

They manned guns sprayed by enemy machinegun fire and blazed away at the attackers. Observers agreed that had it not been for their courage the British would have lost not only their convoy, but would have suffered far more damage than that caused by the loss of the cruiser Southampton and the battering of the Illustrious.

The fact that the big convoy carrying supplies and men to Greece successfully ran the gantlet was undoubtedly encouraging not only to the Greeks but to Britain's other allies in this area.

The rapidly developing field of naval air operations will bring an aeronautics expert, Lieutenant-Commander Steadman Teller, of Locust Valley, N. Y., to the Mediterranean soon. He is expected to be assigned to an aircraft carrier immediately.

British Cruiser Is Still Trailing French Vessel

Freighter Halts Off Brazilian Coast; Warship Remains Near.

PORTO ALEGRE, Brazil, Jan. 16.—(P)—The French freighter Mendoza, apparently thwarted in her fourth attempt to run the British blockade and reach France with a cargo of food, halted off shore from the village of Rio Grande tonight.

The British auxiliary cruiser Asturias, which has followed every move of the Mendoza, lay not far away but outside territorial waters.

The port captain at Rio Grande said the Mendoza had not sought to enter the harbor but that both vessels could be seen not far distant.

After ducking back into the River Plate estuary three times to escape the Asturias, the Mendoza sailed yesterday from Punta Del Este, Uruguay, hugging the shoreline, but was trailed persistently by the British ship, which remained in doubt, but the Asturias apparently was waiting for the time when the French vessel will have to leave the shelter of neutral waters.

RAF OFFICERS DECORATED.
 LONDON, Jan. 16.—(P)—Eight RAF officers, who have accounted for a total of 58 enemy planes, were among 25 men decorated by King George VI today. The decorations included 16 distinguished flying crosses and four distinguished flying medals.

They manned guns sprayed by enemy machinegun fire and blazed away at the attackers. Observers agreed that had it not been for their courage the British would have lost not only their convoy, but would have suffered far more damage than that caused by the loss of the cruiser Southampton and the battering of the Illustrious.

Dixie Senators Hit Starch Importation

WASHINGTON, Jan. 16.—(P)

Two southern senators tonight announced determination to "go the limit" to restrict importation of foreign starches which they asserted stood in the way of an expansion of the sweet potato starch industry in the south.

The principal barrier to the expansion, they said, was a provision in the reciprocal trade agreement with the Netherlands permitting tapioca and sago starch to enter this country duty free as flour.

Senators Bankhead, Democrat, Alabama, and McKellar, Democrat, Tennessee, said they favored abrogation of the treaty if a voluntary agreement could not be reached fixing a quota on starch imports from the Netherlands.

Traffic Arrests Top List for '40 in Atlanta Estate Matters

1,644 Are Charged With Driving Autos While Drunk.

Arrests for traffic law violations topped all other offenses for 1940, according to the annual report of the Atlanta Police Department released yesterday.

A total of 28,750 traffic violations were charged during the year, and these did not include 7,721 cases of illegal parking or 1,644 cases of driving while drunk. These latter two classes of traffic violations pushed the total to 38,115 for the year out of the 82,922 cases booked for all classes of violations.

The report, listing every class of offense from illegal parking to murder, carries a total of 24,391 cases of being drunk on the streets; 105 arrests for murder with 86 convictions, 10 others convicted of lesser crimes and others awaiting trial; 450 of the 810 charged with burglary were convicted, as were 125 of the 149 charged with robbery; 10 of 23 charged with criminal assault were convicted, and 240 convictions were obtained out of 287 charged with aggravated assault.

Of the 1,047 automobiles reported stolen, 1,042 of them were cleared up, according to the report.

NASHVILLE, Tenn., Jan. 16.—(P)—To the accompaniment of martial music and uniformed display, Prentice Cooper was inaugurated today to his second consecutive two-year term as Governor of Tennessee and pledged his administration to make the state "inner citadel of the nation" for defense, to maintain "industrial peace" and to "continue the principles of good government that

RESCUE—Bob Taylor cracks up his airplane as he lands for his first assignment after graduation from the air school. He's rescued from the water by Ruth Hussey, with whom he immediately falls in love, only to discover much later that she is the wife of the commandant. It's all part of the "Flight Command" story, opening today at Loew's Grand.

SEEKING GLORY—Overanxious to make good, Bob makes some terrible blunders which put him in bad with the other squadron flyers, who by this time have guessed Ruth and Bob are in love though the commandant, Walter Pidgeon, hasn't. Eager to help the young flyer win back the confidence of the men, Pidgeon gives Bob a difficult assignment after refusing to accept Taylor's resignation which had been tendered after Ruth had refused to divorce her husband, though in love with Bob. The three say good-bye.

1941 To Exceed Boom in 1929, Experts Claim

Defense Spending Brings Prosperous Note to Country.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 16.—(UP)—Government economists predicted tonight that national prosperity during 1941 will surpass the fabulous "boom year" of 1929. Defense spending will be primarily responsible.

National income will be about the same as 1929, but, because of lower prices, "real purchasing power" will be about 10 to 15 percent higher, the Bureau of Agricultural Economics said.

Bureau economists said that although the nation is starting on a rapid rise in prosperity "there is little basis for expecting a price rise of inflationary proportion in the near future."

New defense jobs largely have been responsible for raising non-agricultural employment, excluding the military, to the highest point since 1929. Prices received by farmers are increasing and total income this year may be the highest in 11 years, the bureau said.

The bureau estimated that 5,000,000 more persons will be employed this year than in 1929. The estimate includes 3,000,000 more in the military services, trade and industry and 2,000,000 more on federal relief projects.

The economists said unemployment in 1941 will average about half that of 1940. They estimated that more than 2,000,000 persons found jobs in private employment between March and November.

Reflecting increased employment and payrolls as a result of defense spending, living costs are rising, the bureau reported. Wholesale commodity prices have climbed steadily since last August and are now at the highest since outbreak of the European war.

Will Hays Denies Wheeler Charges

NEW YORK, Jan. 16.—(AP)—Replying to charges made by Senator Burton K. Wheeler that the motion picture industry was engaged in "propaganda for war," Will H. Hays, head of the Motion Picture Producers and Distributors of America, Inc., asserted today that "the facts utterly deny the merit of such charges."

In a letter written to Wheeler, Hays declared, "The motion picture cameras have caught and recorded far too much of the tragedy and horror of modern war for this industry's leaders to disregard the consequences of America's belligerency, much less deliberately use the screen for war propaganda."

Analyzing each of the three major divisions of films, Hays said "the record indicates that 16 per cent of the newest clips dealt with a variety of people and current events related to the national defense; only 2.4 per cent of the short subjects and 5 per cent of the features approved during 1940 had any relation, direct or indirect, to European politics or the European war, and no appreciable fraction of even these small percentages of the total can be said to show an intention to incite to war."

"Go West," presenting the Marx Brothers—Groucho, Chico and Harpo—moves today to the Rhodes theater for a holdover engagement.

The Marxes say this is their epic western to end all westerns. It is the first time anyone has ever poked fun at the big, bad man, hard boiled sirens, lovely heroines and brave heroes of the early west. The Marxes do so by making the picture a howl from start to finish. To help things along, they don pioneer-day costumes, revamped to suit their own ideas.

CHICAGO, Jan. 18.—(AP)—Wheat prices closed 3-4 to 3-4 cent lower at the abb point of the session as the market reflected good grain but rains and continued sluggish floor business.

Although selling at no time was on a very large scale, the market was under persistent pressure after a show of firmness at the opening. Prices recovered fractionally at times but support, which came largely from commercial interests, including mill and stock, corn displayed in contrast the action of wheat of the time, due partly to reduced firmness most try to prevent as a result of bad weather and a soft winter wheat belt.

Rains were reported in both the hard and soft wheat area of the Ohio valley where there has been a deficiency the further precipitation is in prospect.

The Army IN GEORGIA

COLUMBUS, Ga., Jan. 16.—Major General Lloyd R. Frendendall, commanding general of Fort Benning and the Fourth Division, has notified Washington authorities that there is need for quarters for 700 commissioned officers and for 400 non-commissioned officers and civilian employees.

This announcement was made at a meeting of the directors of the Columbus Housing Authority, who are discussing with Washington's contemplated $500,000 addition to the George Foster Peabody white slum clearance here. Brown Nicholson, director, said that bids for this project would be advertised next week. The new addition, he said, would include 150 units and a community house to be located on the present playground. It will contain a small auditorium, a nursery school, a clinic, first-aid room and craft shop for children.

Beware Coughs Following Flu

After the flu is over and gone, the cough that follows may develop into chronic bronchitis if neglected. Creomulsion relieves promptly because it goes right to the seat of the trouble to help loosen and expel germ laden phlegm. It aids nature to soothe and heal raw, tender, inflamed bronchial mucous membranes. No matter how many medicines you have tried, tell your druggist to sell you a bottle of Creomulsion with the understanding you must like the way it quickly allays the cough or you are to have your money back.

Show World Pays Tribute to Penner

GLENDAL, Cal., Jan. 16.—(AP) Friends of the show world paid their final tribute today to Joe Penner, the 36-year-old comedian who provoked laughter with his inquiry, "Wanna buy a duck?"

PENNER CARRIED $360,000 IN LIFE INSURANCE

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 16.—(AP) Joe Penner carried life insurance amounting to $360,000, Coroner Charles H. Hersch disclosed today in announcing that an autopsy showed the stage and movie comedian's death here last Friday was caused by a heart attack.

The coroner said he was told the amount of the life insurance was the reason "why there was a general desire to have the cause of Penner's death settled as quickly as possible, particularly after a suggestion that an overdose of sleeping powders might have been responsible."

'People's' Talk In Britain Is Hailed by Reds

'Hope' of Better Soviet-British Relations Is Seen

MOSCOW, Jan. 16.—(AP)—A "people's convention" in London last Sunday which urged creation of a new British government to make a "people's peace" and establish friendship with Soviet Russia was hailed today by Tass, official Russian news agency, as "a new step toward union of the workers' class and democratic elements in England."

The Tass account of the convention, to which Izvestia, the government paper, devoted half a page, attributed the following statements to convention speakers:

"England is almost in a state of war with the U. S. S. R. because she maintains in London the Polish government which declared war on the Soviet Union. . . ."

"The Soviet Union cannot cooperate with England until there is a (British) government which really and sincerely will cooperate with the Soviet Union."

In London, a responsible Soviet source asserted there was "hope, but nothing more tangible," that, with Anthony Eden as foreign secretary, trade and political relations between the Soviet Union and Britain might improve.

The statement came in connection with a denial of reports that Russia contemplated either buying or building 200 merchant ships to carry oil, cotton, corn and other supplies from the Americas.

News of Mrs. Joseph Gatins Is Received Here From Paris

... ATLANTA FRIENDS of Mrs. Joseph F. Gatins will welcome news of this former Atlanta, who has been in Paris ever since World War No. 2 had its beginning. In a letter written by Cora Whitehead, a New Yorker who recently returned from the French capital, the work of Mrs. Gatins is put forth in glowing terms.

Mrs. Gatins is in excellent health and is living with her mother, Madam Fischer, at 17 Place des Etats Unis, where she made her home long before war was declared by Germany. Mrs. Whitehead writes: "Mrs. Gatins is very active and is endeavoring to relieve the frightful misery and suffering within her power. She is generous in her intelligent and untiring efforts, and through her courage and unselfishness, she is rendering valuable service. I do not know how many could live without her help. I have been privileged to be associated with Mrs. Gatins to a certain extent, and I entertain the hope that in some form or other I may be of service to what she is seeking to accomplish, from my home in New York. Her son is a prisoner in Germany, and she hears from him whenever it is possible to communicate with him. But alas, this is not as frequently as she would like, but she comforts herself with the thought that he is in good health."

... WHEN LOVELY Anne Bellinger becomes the bride of Charles Sheppard Archer Jr., of Baltimore, Md., at a fashionable ceremony on January 31 at Emory Theological chapel, she will carry an exquisite rose point lace handkerchief given her by her aunt, Mrs. S. C. Dobbs, last Christmas.

For something old she will wear a handsome gold bracelet which belongs to her mother, Mrs. Lyle Frederick Bellinger.

Carrying out the traditional something "new" will be Anne's beautiful wedding gown and veil. A touch of blue will be added by the blue garters given her by her friend, Mrs. C. W. Sturtevant, who also presented the popular bride-elect a dime to wear for luck in the heel of her slipper.

... ONE OF the most interested spectators at President Roosevelt's inauguration on Monday will be Mrs. W. M. Carmichael, who leaves today by motor for the national capital. She will be accompanied by her daughter, Mrs. J. Harris Dew, the former Virginia Carmichael, and they will be joined in Washington by Jane Carmichael, who is a student at National Park Seminary.

When President Roosevelt was inaugurated the first time, Mrs. Carmichael was present with her daughter, Virginia, who was at that time a student in school at Fredericksburg, Va. During the ceremonies attendant upon the inauguration, Mrs. Carmichael tried two large posters, in the shape of the American flag, which were used as part of the decoration for the presidential platform. Through some influential friends, the Atlanta was able to obtain the posters, and now they are among her most valued souvenirs.

When F. D. R. took the oath of office the second time, Jane attended the ceremonies with a group of Washington Seminary students, and Mrs. Carmichael and her other daughter remained at home. But for the third inauguration, the trio will attend together, and they will be present at a number of official affairs. And Mrs. Carmichael is hoping to get other official souvenirs to add to her flag.

... WHEN Mildred and Paul Seydel returned Wednesday from Tennessee, they brought late news of Elizabeth Skaggs Bowman, gifted author of "Land of High Horizons," who with her husband, Dr. Bowman, visited here last fall. You see, Mildred went to Athens, Tenn., to address the student body of Tennessee Wesleyan College, but she and Paul spent the night in Knoxville, and it was there they saw the Bowmans. In fact, Dr. and Mrs. Bowman came down to Knoxville from their home in the mountains especially to give a dinner party for the Seydels.

The subject of Mildred's address was "Courage," a much-needed asset in these times of stress and strain. She drew largely from her latest book, "Chins Up," a volume that is particularly timely in view of world developments.

... GLIMPSED at the cocktail party given by Mrs. Campbell Mahen and Gregory Stevens: Mrs. Robert Maddox Jr. chatting with Mr. Mahen. . . Mrs. John B. Horne telling friends about her new grandson, Richard Smith. . . Mrs. Emily Head, Mrs. J. Harvey Irvin and Orme Campbell forming an attractive trio sitting by the cocktail table. . . Mrs. Campbell McKenna and Colonel and Mrs. Mart Bailey arriving at 6 o'clock. . . Jane Lawless looking smart in a natural lynx jacket. . . Martha Frost arriving with Calhoun Withan. . . The hostess greeting guests to the new Arthur Murray studio, where various old scrapbooks were on display. . . Harry Edwards talking to her brother, Jack, and Bud Hartley. . . Miss Louise Dooley greeting Chet Blakeman. . . Mrs. Andrew Weinman looking smart in light tan with brown accessories.

Now is the Time to Beware of Contagious Colds!

At a treacherous time like this, with contagious colds all around you, what you do today may save you and your family a lot of sickness, worry and trouble later.

Follow these simple rules of health: Live normally. Avoid excesses. Eat simple food. Drink plenty of water. Keep elimination regular. Take some exercise daily—preferably outdoors. Get plenty of rest and sleep.

Then use these two time-tested treatments when needed.

AT THE FIRST SHUFFLE, SNEEZE OR SIGN OF NASAL IRRITATION . . . put a few drops of Vicks VapoRub on each nostril right away. This helps to prevent many colds from developing, because Vicks VapoRub is expressly designed to help Nature's own defenses against colds. (If a head cold causes stuffiness, you'll find that a few drops of Vicks VapoRub clear the clogging mucus and makes breathing freer and easier.)

IF A CHEST COLD OR COUGHING COLD DEVELOPS (some colds get by all precautions) depend on Vicks VapoRub to relieve miseries. Rub VapoRub on throat, chest and back and cover with a warm cloth. VapoRub acts to bring relief 2 ways at once. It stimulates surface of chest and back like a warming poultice. At the same time it releases helpful medicinal vapors that are breathed direct into the irritated air passages.

Both Vicks VapoRub and VapoRub have been tested through years of use in millions of homes. When you use these two medicines you are not experimenting, you are not taking needless chances. Remember: If the condition of the cold fails to respond quickly to treatment—or if more serious trouble is indicated—call your family physician right away. In the meantime be prepared! Get a bottle of Vicks VapoRub and a jar of Vicks VapoRub today—have them handy, ready to use.

The communications committee will play an important role in the final plans for the circle Cotton Carnival to be held on the Rainbow roof of the Ansley hotel on the evening of January 27, with Mrs. Robert F. Adamson and Mrs. Bernard Neal as general chairmen.

The Young Matrons' circle for the Tallulah Falls school met recently at the Piedmont Driving Club with Mrs. Keith A. Quarterman, president, presiding. Matrons' circle, and will be open to the public.

Mrs. Charles T. Pottinger, a member of the Passie Fenton Otley Endowment Fund drive, gave a report. Members of her committee include Mesdames Lawrence Willet and W. Eugene Harrington. Mrs. Pottinger stressed the real need for the small gifts, stating that they were sincerely appreciated. She also stressed the needs of the students at the school. Mrs. Neal and Mrs. Adamson outlined plans for the cotton carnival and Mrs. C. Robert Mitchell described the airplane trip to New York, a gift to the circle from Captain Eddie Rickenbacker. ## Board Votes For Transfer Of Almshouse

Commission Is Divided Over New Location for Institution.

Fulton county commissioners yesterday voted unanimously to remove the almshouse from its present location in the fashionable North Fulton Park, but they split, 3 to 2, in favor of placing it at the old white industrial farm site at the edge of Hapeville.

Just before all voted to move the almshouse away from North Fulton, Chairman Troy Chastain, Dr. C. R. Adams and Charlie Brown outvoted Gler Halley and Ed Almond on the proposal to locate the institution at the old reformatory—now abandoned.

Dr. Adams, however, said that actually the place should be near Grady hospital because the inmates need so much medical care and it was decided to consult Grady authorities as to the feasibility of including it in the plans for the metropolitan hospital center.

Estimated Savings.

Ralph W. Didschuneit, contractor who was foreman of the September-October grand jury which originally recommended removal of the house from the park, exhibited preliminary plans for building a new almshouse around the old reformatory administration building, declaring this would save the county at least $25,000 in the cost of construction.

Thomas Bradberry, architect, was authorized to make estimates of the cost of a new building but no other concrete action on the matter was taken by the commissioners.

Other matters acted on by the commissioners included: Authorized a committee to study plans for building a new fireproof barracks at Bellwood camp.

Stricter Police Exams. Transferred 11 pensioned men from the public works department pay roll to the expense of "other lawful charges"—a bookkeeping matter—and placed three employees on $50 salaries for part-time work.

Adopted a stricter medical examination for new policemen but refused to lower the age limit for new officers from 37 to 35. Paul Harrison was employed in the police department to take the place of T. J. Davis, veteran officer who retired January 1.

Voted to require persons paying for asphalt for roads built by the county to pay the asphalt companies direct—not the county as heretofore.

Confirmed appointment of W. O. Duval as a member of the board of public welfare. He was elected at an unannounced meeting held outside the courthouse last week.

Heard a delegation headed by Miss Fannie Hinton, Carnegie librarian, ask that the county contribute an additional $7,500 to install a "bookmobile," and other funds to buy books for branch libraries.

Voted to pay five county officials whose salaries were illegally reduced during the depression and who later made demands for payment.

Approved employment of L. A. Pirkle, Joe A. Reid and Mrs. Marie Coons by the juvenile court as recommended by Judge Garland M. Watkins.

Flame Bombs Rain on West English Town

Nazi Raiders Stab at London With Two Thrusts.

LONDON, Jan. 17.—(Friday)—(P)—German raiders showered two west English towns with fire bombs last night while limiting their assaults on London to two quick thrusts which drew intensive anti-aircraft fire in the capital's outskirts.

An east coast town also was the target for incendiary bombs, but there were no reports on damage or casualties.

These assaults came amid indications that Britain's constant research on the problem of night defense against bombers had not, in the words of Air Minister Sir Archibald Sinclair, "gone altogether unrewarded."

"No decisive result can be expected immediately," he told a Glasgow audience, and an air ministry news service bulletin cautiously credited one of the increasing number of night fighter planes being used with shooting down two German bombers last night, one over London and the other over Essex.

Sir Archibald said that Italy was "in deadly peril of complete Nazi domination," suggested that the Italians "break the grip of their Fascist bosses," and tabulated plane losses so far in the Mediterranean conflict at 303 Italian to 61 British.

Willkie Urges All the Power F. D. R. Needs

So 'We Can Debate in Another Free Election,' He Says.

NEW YORK, Jan. 16.—(UP)—Wendell L. Willkie, in an impromptu speech on the Town Hall of the Air Radio program tonight, urged "all Americans to give President Roosevelt all the powers he needs to carry out his aid-to-Britain program so 'we can debate with him again in another free election.'"

The former Republican presidential candidate said he believed that if Britain collapses, "within a few years the free way of life will pass from America."

"We will keep America out of war if we supply to the fighting men of Britain the resources they need to defeat and crush the ruthless dictators," he said.

Willkie first announced his endorsement "with modifications" of President Roosevelt's loan-lease bill in a press conference last Sunday.

"I, who opposed Franklin Roosevelt with all my resources," Willkie said, "I call on all Americans to give him such power in this crisis that we can save America so that we can debate with him again in another election."

British Leave Big Nazi Base 'Waste of Fire'

Docks at Emden, Bremerhaven Are Also Battered by RAF.

LONDON, Jan. 16.—(P)—With a bright moon and their fire bombs to light the way, RAF crews battered at German North sea bases overnight, the air ministry said today, bombing docks at Emden and Bremerhaven and leaving Wilhelmshaven "a waste of flame."

For Wilhelmshaven, main base of the Reich's North sea fleet, it was called the 40th and greatest British attack in this air war which knows no fronts.

The air ministry news service said the Wilhelmshaven raid was carried out in two installments: from 8 p. m. to shortly after midnight and then again from 5 to 6 a. m.

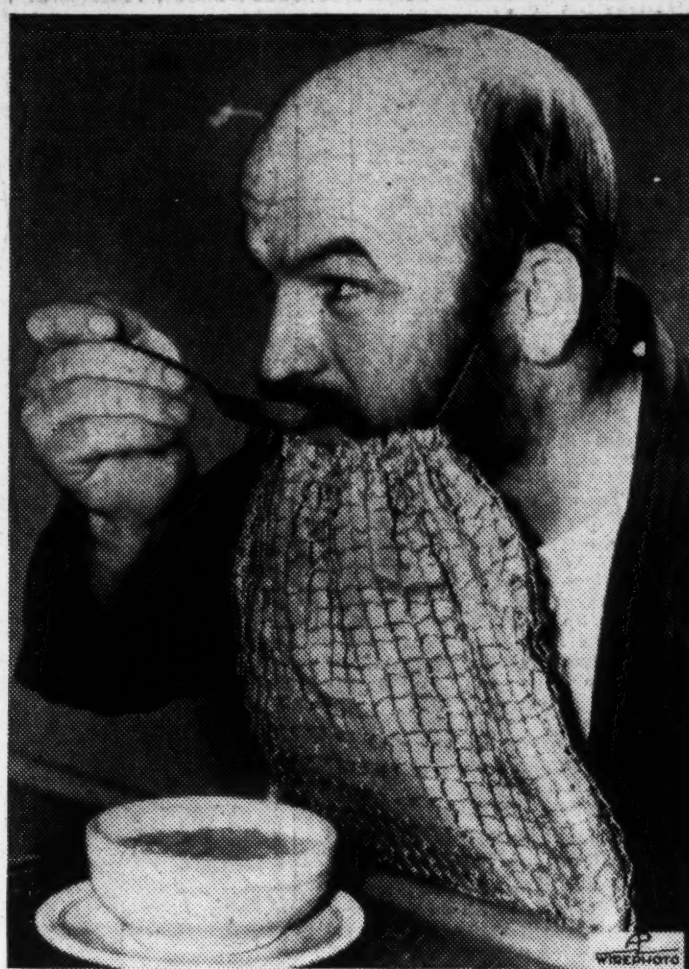

"It was more like stoking than bombing," said one pilot. "We just shoveled our bombs into the fires and watched them increase." Homebound-bound airmen said they could see the ruddy glare in the sky for 130 miles. All bombers but one came back, the British said, and it messaged "mission completed" before its radio went dead.

(The German high command acknowledged that 20 persons were killed and 35 injured in the Wilhelmshaven attack. The British caused no "noteworthy damage," its communique insisted.)

Docks at Rotterdam and Flushing, "invasion ports" in the Netherlands, also were bombed, the air ministry said, along with airdromes in northwest Germany and the Netherlands.

Atlanta Glider Ace's Stunting Intrigues Duke

Charles Gives Special Miami Exhibition for Ex-King.

A stunt flying exhibition at the special request of the Duke of Windsor is the latest of a long list of flying honors in the career of J. Shelley Charles, Atlanta transport pilot.

He took a motorless glider to Miami last weekend to perform in the All-American air maneuvers. His soaring exhibition was in progress when a plane from the Bahamas, bearing the ex-King, arrived at the field.

The Duke's plane was not allowed to land while Charles was stunting, so it had to circle the field until he came down. The Duke watched the Atlanta do his tricks and when his plane finally landed, asked to talk to the flyer.

Charles talked with the ex-King for 10 minutes, and the Duke was greatly interested in the Atlanta's new glider, which was imported from England several months ago.

Then the Governor of the Bahamas asked Charles for an encore—and officials of the air show quickly revised the original schedule to make way for a "command performance."

Charles is the national amateur soaring champion. He does stunt flying for a hobby during off hours from flying a transport plane between Atlanta and Chicago.

Women Offer Plan for Civic Improvements

City Club Federation Presents Program to Council.

A four-point program for civic betterment yesterday was forwarded to Mayor LeCraw and members of city council as a result of the midwinter meeting of the Atlanta Federation of Women's Clubs.

The organization also passed resolutions calling on the Fulton county commission to preserve the botanical gardens as a scientific study and commercial experiment rather than "merely another recreation park."

Resolutions affecting the city called on postal authorities and the city to eliminate street name duplications; agreed that traffic congestion is a major problem and urged a constructive program of reform; called on council to preserve a "humanitarian program" in conduct of the city prison; requested adequate planning of auditorium needs and construction of additional facilities adjacent to the present building along with rebuilding of the fire-razed front portion; urged that no economies be taken in the matter of smoke abatement which would injure the work already begun.

Social Council Sees Danger in Migrant Labor

Influx of Itinerants Here Poses Economic and Health Problem.

The increasing number of migrant laborers, flocking into Atlanta and other Georgia points seeking work on government building projects, can produce a very real and serious health and social problem for this community, the Social Planning Council warned yesterday.

Already there are more unemployed laborers in the Atlanta vicinity than can find work and the steady inflow of itinerant laborers is increasing the unemployment problem, Mrs. Mary W. Athearn, chairman of the committee on non-residents and homeless of the council, declared at the meeting yesterday afternoon.

Mrs. Athearn's warning followed closely the announcement by W. S. MacDonald, assistant general manager and personnel director of the construction at Camp Gordon, that "we have experienced no scarcity of any type of labor and we expect absolutely no trouble in filling our requirements."

This prompted Mrs. Athearn's statement to the planning council that: "As long as there is a surplus of local unskilled unemployed labor, we might as well face the fact that for every laborer coming from another community who is employed on a local defense project, some DeKalb or Fulton county laborer is left unemployed and must be cared for by relative, WPA or relief."

Mrs. Athearn called for a joint meeting of labor organizations, public employment services and other agencies to work out a solution to prevent the growth of migrant settlements which she termed "hazardous" to both the people in them and the rest of the community.

Rumanians Die Every Night Fighting Reds

Passenger Rail Traffic in Hungary Halted; Balkans Uneasy.

BELGRADE, Yugoslavia, Jan. 16.—(AP)—Repeated border clashes on the Russo-Rumanian frontiers, cancellation of passenger rail traffic in Hungary and reports that Germany would take over Rumania formally combined tonight to keep the Balkans in a state of disturbed anxiety.

There are signs of growing Russian-Rumanian friction. A high diplomatic source said tonight that an average of 5 to 10 Rumanian guards are being killed nightly in clashes on the Bessarabian-Bucovinan frontiers.

One theory is that the Russians are using these incidents to test how far Germany's "rubber fence" might stretch—how far the Nazis might back up Rumania in case the Soviet demanded Moldavia and northern Dobruja from Rumania.

An announcement in Budapest that all traffic on Hungarian railroads, except international trains, would be suspended at midnight led to the supposition in diplomatic circles here that the German military command, which is now running the Magyar railroads, had found drastic steps necessary in order to complete the projected movement of 300,000 troops with full motorized equipment during January.

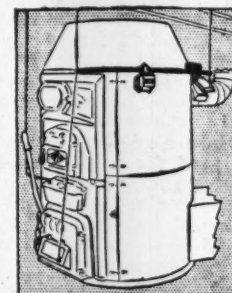

Rumanian rail traffic, except for the movement of German military trains, already is virtually at a standstill.

DRENNON ELECTED.

Alderman Raleigh Drennon was elected chairman of the Steiner hospital board of trustees at a reorganization meeting yesterday. The trustees approved, in principle, the proposal to merge the management under the Grady hospital trustees.

Sen. James F. Byrnes WILL SPEAK TONIGHT 9 P. M. OVER CBS AND STATION WGST

UNDER AUSPICES OF THE COMMITTEE TO DEFEND AMERICA BY AIDING THE ALLIES

VARIETY—A drama tailor-made for Screen Actor Charles Boyer by Jean Holloway, and a song written to measure for Kate Smith by her choir master, Ted Straeter, will feature the "Kate Smith Hour" over WGST at 7 o'clock tonight.

"Espionage," a romantic melodrama about a spy in Vienna, has been especially written by Miss Holloway to fit the talents of Mr. Boyer. His dramatic feature will have a colorful complement in the songs of Kate Smith and comedy by Charles Cantor and Minerva Pious, the singer's new comedy team. Miss Smith will be supported musically by the Jack Miller orchestra and Ted Straeter's choir. Producer Ted Collins will act as host of the program.

BUSTERS—Amid the barking of machineguns, the wailing of sirens and the tramp of marching feet, the fifth anniversary program of Gang Busters—America's Crusade Against Crime—will go on the air over WAGA at 8 o'clock tonight.

Then the program, whose clues have helped in the apprehension of 160 criminals, will reveal its annual roster of public rats who have won the doubtful distinction of being named as the most sought-after criminals at large today.

DRAMA—Screen Favorites George Raft and Frances Farmer join to provide a stirring, dramatic treat for listeners in the "Playhouse" production of Adela Rogers St. John's story, "A Free Soul," over WGST at 8:30 o'clock tonight.

Diana Bourbon, one of radio's few feminine directors, again presides in the control room for the popular Friday evening CBS feature, with Lynn Murray composing and conducting the musical score. "A Free Soul" is generally considered to have provided the "springboard to stardom" for Clark Gable. It also won the Academy of Motion Picture Arts and Sciences award for Lionel Barrymore.

WOMEN'S CLUB—The music division of the fine arts department of the Atlanta Federation of Women's Clubs, of which Nana Tucker is chairman, will present its monthly educational broadcast over WSB in the interest of better music on Friday evening from 9:30 to 10 o'clock. The program will feature Augusta Allison Ples, pianist; William Wyatt, tenor, and Emile Farnelle, organ and piano accompanist.

The program will include: Piano—Sonata F-sharp major, Opus 78, Beethoven. Adagio cantabile—Allegro non troppo, Opus 142, No. 2, Schubert. Voice—Recitative and aria from "The Messiah," Handel—"Comfort Ye, My People," Every Valley Shall Be Exalted, "The Robin Sings in the Apple Tree," MacDowell; "Thou Art Like a Flower," Rubinstein.

DIVORCE—"When a wife's old flame" rekindles the fires of an early romance, what should the husband do? This is the striking true-life question of "I Want a Divorce," starring Joan Blondell, to be broadcast over WATL at 8:30 o'clock tonight.

A fast-moving radio play, replete with surprises, the story deals with the dilemma confronting a husband when his wife's girlhood "flame" reappears. When he sees that his wife is evidencing a more than casual interest, he takes novel means to solve the problem.

Miss Lynan Is Dead; Was Leader Here

She Was Connected With The Constitution for Many Years.

Miss Kate R. Lynan, for years connected with the national advertising department of The Constitution, died last night at a private sanitarium.

Miss Lynan, widely known in the advertising field, was associated for many years with James R. Holliday, retired national advertising director of The Constitution. The business of the advertising director caused him to travel extensively, and during his absence, Miss Lynan was in charge of the local office.

She retired from The Constitution about eight years ago. Miss Lynan was also active in church affairs, being the first president of the Atlanta Catholic Club for Business and Professional Women.

Originally of Dalton, Miss Lynan was educated in private schools here, graduating from the Immaculate Conception convent. She helped to organize the Atlanta Chapter of the Order of Mary, and was its treasurer. She was also a member of St. Catherine's Circle of the Altar Society of Sacred Heart church, a charter member of the Georgia Missionary Society, a member of the Catholic Laymen's Association of Georgia and a charter member of the National Council of Catholic Women.

Surviving are a sister, Mrs. William M. Otis; six nieces, Miss Gertrude Corrigan, Miss Regina Corrigan, Mrs. Lewis Ambrose, Mrs. Anthony J. O'Donnell, Mrs. Mark Buxey, Miss Katherine Otis and two nephews, Consul John Corrigan, Durban, South Africa, and William L. Otis.

She resided at 689 Myrtle street, N. E. Funeral services will be held at 10 o'clock tomorrow morning at Sacred Heart church. Burial will be in Oakland cemetery, with Sam R. Greenberg & Co. in charge of arrangements.

Style Pirating Declared Boon

So-called practice of "style pirating" in clothing, furniture and other manufactured products, is a necessary part of merchandising and manufacturing, Dr. Kenneth D. Hutchinson, assistant professor of economics at Pennsylvania State College, has announced, after an investigation of the subject.

Hutchinson, who summed up his views in the Harvard Business Review, believes that no producer of new styles, no matter in what product, should be accorded a monopoly. "All styles are imitative," he said. "We select styles in order to look like others who we think are stylish."

"There is no such thing as originality in styles. Every style is an adaptation of some previous one. It is the copying of styles which makes them into fashions. To stop copying would be to stop fashions. When a style becomes too popular, the public seeks a new one."

Hutchinson expressed satisfaction that to date none of the 39 bills introduced in the current session of congress which would establish monopolies in certain style goods has passed.
